Kingston Activities Returning to Normal

By JON POWERS

KINGSTON
It's touch and go for Kingston's shops and stores as most merchants say they will probably remain open tonight until their normal 9 or 9:30 p.m. closing time.

The weather, however, will be a big factor in their decision to either brave the elements or close shop early.

The United States Weather Bureau said today that the storm would diminish by late this afternoon or early this evening. Business and social activities in the area, as a result, are expected to slowly return to normal.

Christmas shoppers and regular store-goers are advised to "call before coming." Most merchants have indicated that if they decide to close shop early tonight, they will make the necessary announcements over Kingston's three radio stations.

If the weather worsens and traffic conditions remain hazardous, store owners said they would most likely curtail the day's activities several hours earlier. A halt to the snow, and quick clearing of city streets and parking areas, will mean "business as usual."

All Kingston merchants expect a decrease in business volume from the normal Christmas shopping activity tonight, but most indicated that any decision to close early would be predicted "strictly on weather conditions." "The volume of business will not effect our decision," said Herman Rafalowsky, an uptown clothier. "A snowstorm like this always affects business."

Rafalowsky, and several other Kingston merchants, said that if the storm worsens, and a decision to close is made, business will probably be curtailed at the normal 6 p.m. time.

Stores at Kingston's two major shopping plazas will also stay open if the weather permits. A spokesman for Montgomery Ward said, "most of our employees are here and we'll stay open until 9:30 tonight," and those words were echoed by Sears, Roebuck and Company, with the stipulation, "unless the storm gets worse, then we'll close down early and announce it on the radio."

Officials at Britts, Wallace's and Flah's all indicated that they would make every attempt to maintain Christmas shopping hours.

Several uptown merchants noted that business on Wednesday (day and night) was "extremely heavy," indicating that shoppers anticipated today's storm. All will not be in vain today and tonight either, as many storeowners anticipate at least some business because of the county wide school closings.

Restaurant owners and managers, as well, are playing it by ear for tonight's dinner hour. Most city establishments indicated they would make every attempt to remain open tonight, despite receiving several cancellations for dinner parties and banquets.

The storm also had an effect on other city activities.

Special City Court Judge George Beck said that he held court as usual today, but only a handful of defendants showed up. He said all cases scheduled for today would be adjourned until next Thursday. A full City Court docket is on tap for tomorrow.

All County Supreme Court cases, it was noted, have been put off until Friday.

Ulster County Community College opened at noon today and it was indicated that all evening and extension classes would be held as usual tonight, unless otherwise indicated.

A public hearing scheduled for tonight by the city's Laws and Rules Committee of the Common Council has been adjourned. The hearing on Senior Citizen Tax Exemptions has been rescheduled for Monday evening at 7 in the City Courtroom.

Today's City auction has been postponed until Monday at 2 p. m. in the Common Council chambers.

and announced Wednesday in Washington, D.C., by Atty. Gen. John N. Mitchell.

McKneally could not be located in either Washington or Newburgh for comment. A spokesman for the congressman said

The Newburgh Republican, past national and state commander of the American Legion was defeated last month by John G. Dow in an election held after it had been revealed that he was having problems with the Internal Revenue Service. Dow was the Democratic incumbent defeated in 1968 in a campaign in which McKneally made an issue out of Dow's opposition to the Vietnam War. The indictment was returned in U.S. District Court at Albany once started early in the storm. County highway crews started plowing and sanding at 10 p.m. Wednesday and had major roads open and passable this morning. Plowing operations were continued.

In the city the Board of Public Works started plowing the priority snow routes at midnight and continued workshop through the early morning hours.

Charles J. Cole, BPW superintendent said today that refuse collections for today have been canceled. The revised schedule calls for Thursday collections to be made Friday and Friday's routes to be covered on Saturday. The Kingston Landfill will be closed today but will be open Saturday from 7 a.m. to 3 p.m.

City police aided in transporting nurses and doctors to and from hospitals this morning in order to keep medical facilities fully staffed. Emergency transportation was supplied by Doctor's and Fatums Ambulance services also. Both ambulance firms made their vehicles available for those needing immediate conveyance.

Central Hudson reported "no trouble at all due to the storm." There had been no power outages and apparently no downed lines due to the heavy snows.

Driveway clearance provided the most headaches in the early morning hours as those headed for work tried to get out to main traffic arteries. Shovels were the order of the day.

Bus transportation got a late start. Urban Transit buses did not start operating until noon. Early runs for Mountainview Coach Lines and Eagle Bus Company were canceled but afternoon buses were back on schedule.

There were some minor accidents due to the storm. Mrs. Vilja Schaht, 53, of R.D. 1, Box 420, West Hurley, was injured shortly before 9:20 p.m. Wednesday when her car reportedly collided with a parked vehicle on Route 28 during the snowstorm. She was taken to Kingston Hospital by Doctors Ambulance Service and treated for multiple lacerations of the right leg.

Most areas of Ulster County had more than a foot of snow by early morning when rain and sleet mixtures added to travel woes.

Ellenville and New Paltz village police reported that there was little difficulty with traffic tie ups in their areas, but urged motorists to drive with caution.

Saugerties Village was quite another story. Village police there termed traveling "pretty tough." All the hills were tied up with skidding and stalled vehicles and according to a commuter report "nothing was moving."

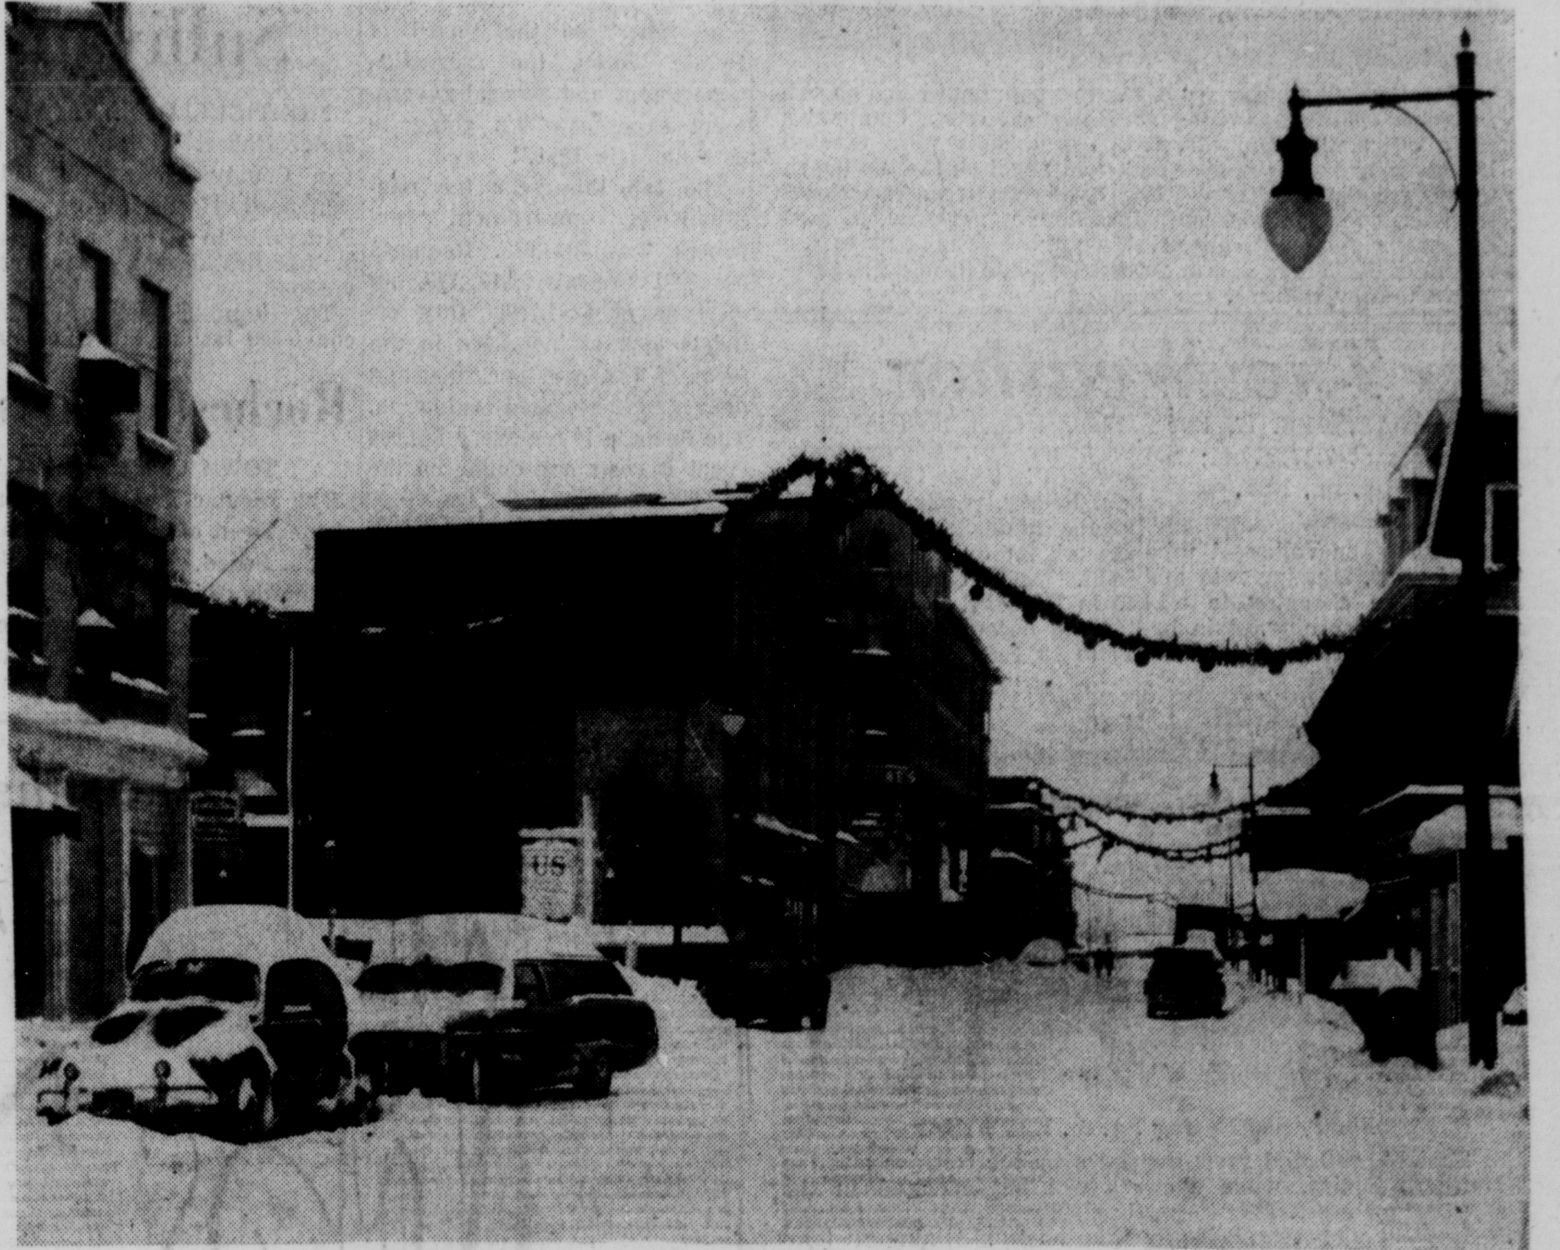

In southern parts of the county, the rains came with daylight and most roads plowed during the night were slicked with added moisture.

Caution was advised for the entire length of the New York

State Thruway. Rain and slippery spots were reported from New York City to Catskill, including of course the Ulster County sections. From Catskill to Buffalo weather was a snow and sleet mixture with icy spots. Conditions from there to the Pennsylvania line are rain and wet roads.

The major portion of the storm is concentrated in eastern portions of New York State with traditional snow belt areas getting a few inches of new snow and some early morning rain. The rain line was just south of Poughkeepsie where snow amounts were only five inches.

Belleayre Ski Center at Highmount escaped the rain portion of the storm adding 12 to 13 inches of new snow to the six to 12 inch base that had been supplying good to excellent skiing for the past week. Winds drifted snow on the mountain overnight but had subsided by early morning. Minor drifting was reported in other areas of the county.

Grand Jury Indicts McKneally

ALBANY, N.Y. (UPI)—Lame duck Congressman Martin McKneally, R-N.Y., has been indicted by a federal grand jury on charges of failing to file income tax returns from 1964-67.

The Newburgh Republican, past national and state commander of the American Legion was defeated last month by John G. Dow in an election held after it had been revealed that he was having problems with the Internal Revenue Service. Dow was the Democratic incumbent defeated in 1968 in a campaign in which McKneally made an issue out of Dow's opposition to the Vietnam War. The indictment was returned in U.S. District Court at Albany and announced Wednesday in Washington, D.C., by Atty. Gen. John N. Mitchell.

McKneally could not be located in either Washington or Newburgh for comment. A spokesman for the congressman said

"I've been convicted in the newspapers of being in arrears of $60,000 in taxes unpaid when I only earned about $48,000 in the years in question," McKneally said at the time.

The day after McKneally's speech, Democratic national chairman Lawrence O'Brien visited Newburgh to campaign for Dow and said "the Justice Department has chosen to sit on" the case.

O'Brien said the Internal Revenue Service had recommended action several months before the election.

The indictment said the Newburgh congressman had a gross income of $78,510 for the four years and failed to file returns of $21,372 in 1964, $24,496 in 1965, $13,067 in 1966 and $19,580 in 1967.

Maximum penalty upon conviction of each count in the indictment is one year in prison and a $10,000 fine.

In addition to serving as American Legion national commander, McKneally practiced law in New York City and had served as special counsel to Lt. Gov. Malcolm Wilson.

McKneally, who will mark his 56th birthday on Dec. 31, is a bachelor. He resides at 329 First Street, Newburgh.

Prisoner's Mother Is Killed In Ohio Courtroom Gun Battle

YOUNGSTOWN, Ohio (AP)—A woman was shot to death Wednesday in a gunbattle with police outside a courtroom where her son had just been sentenced to 30 days in jail for breaking into a locked auto.

Police said the mother, Minnie Jewel Johnson, 39, emptied her six-shot revolver at officers leading her 18-year-old son Leroy Moseley away. Patrolman Norbert Smith, 42, who was wounded slightly, was reported in satisfactory condition early today.

"It's not fair," Mrs. Johnson shouted several times after Municipal Court Judge Joseph Donofrio found Moseley guilty and sentenced him.

Then, police said, Moseley was led by detective Nathaniel Bond into a corridor where a scuffle began after the prisoner was permitted to go to a restroom and began walking in another direction.

Mrs. Johnson walked into the corridor, saw the scuffle, police said, drew the gun and fired at Bond, missing him. She then fired at Smith, wounding him in the leg.

She fired all six shots in her .22-caliber revolver before being fatally wounded in the neck by Patrolman Francis Gallagher. She had refused orders to drop the gun, police said.

Mrs. Johnson had testified during her son's trial that he was at home in bed at the time of the incident. One witness placed him at the scene, another picked out his photo from police files and two men had taken down his license number of his car.

"You shot my mother! She is dead! You shot her in the back," Moseley cried after the shooting.

POLICEMEN INVOLVED—Detective Norbert Smith was shot in the stomach in a Youngstown, Ohio courtroom Wednesday by the mother of a prisoner who was being led from the courtroom for detention. Officer Francis Gallagher (C) shot and killed the woman. Sgt. Anthony Bond (R) was escorting the woman's son from the courtroom when Mrs. Johnson pulled the gun. (UPI TELEPHOTO)

Buildings OK, District Overcrowded

Red Hook School Statistics Divided

By TIM SCHUSTER

RHINEBECK

The Red Hook Central School District is in good shape as far as building needs are concerned, but the Rhinebeck District is "seriously overcrowded," according to a recently published report by the Dutchess County Planning Department.

The 287 page report is the first county-wide inventory of public school facilities, entitled "School Plants," offers an extensive set of recommendations aimed at assuring school district planning that will be in harmony with community plans.

The major recommendation is that school districts project enrollments for at least 10 years into the future. New York State currently allows only a five-year projection for the purpose of school plant building if state aid is to be received.

Based on 1968 information, the report found that statistically the total K-12 enrollment in the county filled every classroom in the county. Elementary levels are seriously overcrowded in the average school, with 70 per cent so judged, and 44 per cent of the secondary schools were ascertained to be overcrowded.

And a projection that the 1970s will need 17 new elementary schools and 11 new secondary schools was based on available data.

The section on the Rhinebeck Central School District notes that the area is "directly linked to and influenced by Kingston growth through the Kingston-Rhinecliff Bridge."

The district's proximity to two "suburbanizing districts" in Hyde Park and Red Hook indicate that its growth will depend on theirs, also.

The Chancellor Livingston Elementary School and Rhinebeck High School buildings are both rated adequate, as are the acreage sites.

The temporary renovated Bulkeley School, originally constructed in 1927, is designated on an overcrowded three-acre site. When the survey was taken, there were only 118 students in the building; there are now 280.

Recommendations for providing additional space are outlined in two plans; the first calls for a 300-pupil addition to the Chancellor Livingston School by 1973 in order to maintain the status quo; the second is to select another site and build from scratch.

The second is preferred by the report, because it decries the use of schools for more than 1,000 pupils, and because it says the second route would be less expensive to maintain. It would also prepare for future growth, completed." This is scheduled for use beginning in September, 1971.

The conclusion on the Rhinebeck District notes, "Of Primary importance to this District is the selection of a new elementary site and the construction of a 300-pupil school."

And it adds, "By even the most conservative estimates, a major increase is expected in the demand for secondary school space" by September, 1970.

With this time come and gone, and the Board of Education in the beginning stages of planning for additional space, it seems inconceivable that the District can catch up to recommendations in the next few years.

The Red Hook Central School District prognosis is less discouraging. It concludes, "No further space will be required in either elementary or secondary building through 1973 once the Mill Road School addition is completed." This is scheduled for use beginning in September, 1971.

The report deplors the acquisition of two sites below the suggested minimum acreage for the area, and advises that larger parcels of land be procured for building in the future.

The Red Hook area is characterized as "a suburban area whose growth is influenced by Kingston." It is expected to maintain its present share of the county's growth.

It was noted that the Mill Road School opened in 1968 to 1968 in 10 buildings, and an capacity enrollment, and was over crowded the next year, high school students in two junior and two senior high schools. It is anticipated that total enrollment will reach 20,000 students by 1973.

the report said that Beacon High School is "one of the most serious plant inadequacies in the county." Its capacity is 900 students, crowded into a four-story building one one acre, and expected enrollment by 1973 will be 1,200 students.

The mammoth Wappingers Central School District, one of the largest in upstate New York, is used to support the need for more than five years for planning.

It embodied about 8,000 elementary school students in 1968 in 10 buildings, and an capacity enrollment, and was over crowded the next year, high school students in two junior and two senior high schools. It is anticipated that total enrollment will reach 20,000 students by 1973.

City Budget... 2nd of Series

came out with the second installment of his three-part series on the city budget for 1971.

The script on today's installment, "miscellaneous government expenses" reads about the same as yesterday's general report on the Board of Public Works, the recreation department and general government expenses—"it's going to cost more in 1971."

The tab this year for miscellaneous government expenses was $943,026. Requests for 1971 are at $1,197,775, an increase of $254,749. City officials look at increases in the form of tax rate per thousand dollars of assessed valuation. The formula is for every $40,000 spent it costs one dollar on the tax rate.

Today's projected increases, according to the mayor add up to about six dollars. Yesterday's increases added up to a tax increase of about $4.75. Tomorrow, the mayor will release figures on the police and fire department budgets which to taled almost $1.2 million this year.

Miscellaneous government expenses cover such items as health insurance, retirement, Social Security, hospitalization for the city's more than 300 employees. It also includes equipment, sewer construction, the street program, postage, and the cost for the mayor's message and the printing of the budget.

Koenig has earmarked $50,000 ("to start") for sewer construction and has included a request for an underground camera for $3,500. The Kingston Narcotics Guidance Council ("they're doing a heck of a job") will receive $4,500.

The mayor will spend a total of $537,000 for the reduction of debt, up $13,000 from this year.

Koenig did not give specifics on the other half of his 1971 budget—revenues—only to say that "they appear to be leveling off."

His aim is to avoid a tax increase despite raising costs.

Sullivan Sentencing

MONTICELLO, N. Y. (AP)—Judge Robert Williams of Sullivan County Court Wednesday sentenced Hattie Hampton of Parkville to 11 years in prison for her first-degree assault conviction.

The Hampton woman, 30, was convicted last month in connection with the death of her 4-year-old daughter, Kery, Nov. 6, 1969, as coroner testified the death was due to multiple injuries inflicted by beating.

Originally the woman had been charged with manslaughter.

Rochester Town Cancels Parley

TOWN OF ROCHESTER The regular monthly meeting of the Town of Rochester Planning Board, scheduled for Wednesday night, was canceled because of inclement weather, according to Planning Board Chairman John Cribano.

Scribano said that the meeting has not yet been rescheduled, but he added that it would not be held until after Christmas. He noted that there was no "urgent" items that had to be discussed at Wednesday's canceled meeting.

Hughes' Top Executive Will Fight Dismissal

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (UPI)—Howard Hughes and his top Nevada executive, Robert A. Maheu, had "a pact to be together the rest of our lives," and Maheu says he will fight his dismissal until the mystery billionaire tells him otherwise.

Maheu, 53, a former FBI agent, testified Wednesday he wanted to remind Hughes "of a long term obligation I feel I have to him and him to me," but he was unable to reach Hughes in the Bahamas.

Maheu was to return to the stand today in his battle with Hughes Tool Co., parent organization of Hughes' estimated $1.5 billion fortune, over its authority to dismiss him.

He Never Met Hughes

Maheu also said he was perplexed that Hughes disappeared from this gambling city without a word of explanation to him.

"I thought it was very strange," Maheu said. "Throughout the last four years there were innumerable instances when Mr. Hughes made reference to the fact that we would be together for the rest of our natural lives."

Testifying about his relationship with the eccentric recluse, whom Maheu has admitted he never met face to face, the executive said he first learned that Hughes left Las Vegas about noon Thanksgiving and Hughes never told him he was fired.

Maheu Vows Court Action

He said he immediately tried to contact the penthouse of the Desert Inn Hotel, where Hughes had been secluded since 1966. He said he finally got one phone call through but that it was inconclusive.

"I have been incapable of communication with him since that time," Maheu said.

He said he would not give up the court fight against his ouster unless he received a confirmation from Hughes either by telephone or by an authenticated letter.

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The 91st Congress is headed for adjournment at noon Jan. 3, when the Constitution declares it must quit—the latest such finish since the dark days of World War II. Even if Congress wanted to adjourn earlier, President Nixon would not allow it.

With the Senate hopelessly entangled in a maze of filibusters, congressional leaders abandoned hope of leaving before the holidays and were reduced to thinking about a couple of days off for Christmas.

Nixon dashed any other thoughts. He threatened to recall Congress Dec. 26 if it adjourned before acting on welfare, Social Security, trade, the supersonic transport (SST) and appropriations measures.

Prospects Are Dim

White House Press Secretary Ronald Ziegler said "the President feels very strongly these measures should be voted up or down before the Congress adjourns. There are other measures, too."

As an added slap at the already restless lawmakers, Nixon Wednesday vetoed a manpower training bill two years in the making. The veto enraged key members of both parties but was likely to be sustained by Congress.

Neither Nixon's threat nor the length of the session appeared to enhance prospects for passing what Nixon has put on his priority list of "overriding interest" legislation.

Filibustering Begins

The last time Congress was in session Jan. 3 was in 1941. In 1951 Congress did not adjourn until Jan. 2.

The Senate and House already have passed a resolution under which the 92nd Congress would not convene until Jan. 21. It is expected Nixon will sign it. If he does not Congress would have to resume at 12:01 p.m. Jan. 3.

Shortly before the White House announcement, the Senate plunged into the first of six possible filibusters—this one over the funding of $210 million to continue research and development of the SST, the faster-than-sound jetliner.

Manpower Training Bill Gets Vetoed

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Democrats gloomily concluded today that President Nixon's veto of a massive manpower training bill—which its backers claimed would have created up to one million jobs—has effectively killed the measure for the remainder of this Congress.

Key Democrats conceded privately the veto could not be overridden and some Democrats launched a campaign to picture the White House as being indifferent to the mounting unemployment problem.

Nixon vetoed the bill Wednesday evening, claiming the federally supported program to create public service jobs "would relegate large numbers of workers to permanent subsidized employment."

"WPA-type jobs are not the answer for the men and women who have them, for the government which is less efficient as a result or for the taxpayers who must foot the bill," Nixon said. The WPA was the Works Progress Administration created to provide jobs during the Depression.

The measure would have authorized $9.3 billion over three years to consolidate in the Labor Department manpower job training programs now spread among various departments and give local and state governments greater control over administration of the programs. Nearly half of the authorization was earmarked for public service jobs which would be created in such fields as recreation, education, health and the environment.

Rep. James G. O'Hara, D-Mich., author of the Democratic version of the earlier House passed bill, said "President Nixon has given the five million unemployed in the nation a pretty grim Christmas present."

Indictments Are Secret

LOS ANGELES (UPI)—A grand jury deliberated only four minutes before returning secret indictments Wednesday in the apparent slaying of a cowboy stuntman at the Spahn ranch, onetime headquarters of Charles Manson's cult.

The names on the three indictments were kept secret—but it was believed Manson, 36, and two of his followers were charged. It would be the ninth slaying attributed to Manson, now on trial for the Sharon Tate murders.

Chief Deputy District Attorney Joseph P. Busch Jr. said he understood the names were not revealed because Manson's attorney, Irving Kanarek, was "upset about it."

However, Busch said that the three were in custody already and two would be arraigned today.

Three former "Manson family" members testified before the jury in its investigation of the death of Ronald "Shorty" Shea, 36.

Polish City Returns to Normal

WARSAW (UPI) — Polish areas to stop unrest from spreading. Radio said today the situation in the riot-stricken area of Gdansk has "returned to normal." Diplomatic sources said police reinforcements were sent into other potential trouble spots—an interlinked area with a population of 600,000. The government news agency said six persons were killed and scores more seriously injured in rioting Monday and Tuesday. Accounts from diplomats and travelers said shipyard of Gdansk and end the state of "anarchy" there. Polish Radio today said "the streets of Gdansk are almost fully cleaned. Life and transportation in Gdansk have returned to normal."

It said Deputy Premier Stanislaw Kociolek delivered a speech to citizens of the tricity area Wednesday, but did not give details. (In Stockholm, the Swedish Broadcasting Corp. (SR) said Polish Premier Jozef Cyrankiewicz, in a speech broadcast by the local radio station, promised the workers higher wages to offset rising food prices and appealed to them to go back to work Wednesday night. SR said he promised the shipyard and dock workers in particular "considerable wage increases.")

The riots broke out following a 20 per cent hike in food prices announced Sunday by the government. Coupled with a meat shortage and a stiff rise in fuel prices—and all coming just before Christmas—the local population apparently took to the streets in protest. It was reminiscent of the "bread and freedom" riots in Poznan, Poland, in 1956.

Rocky Continues the Shuffle

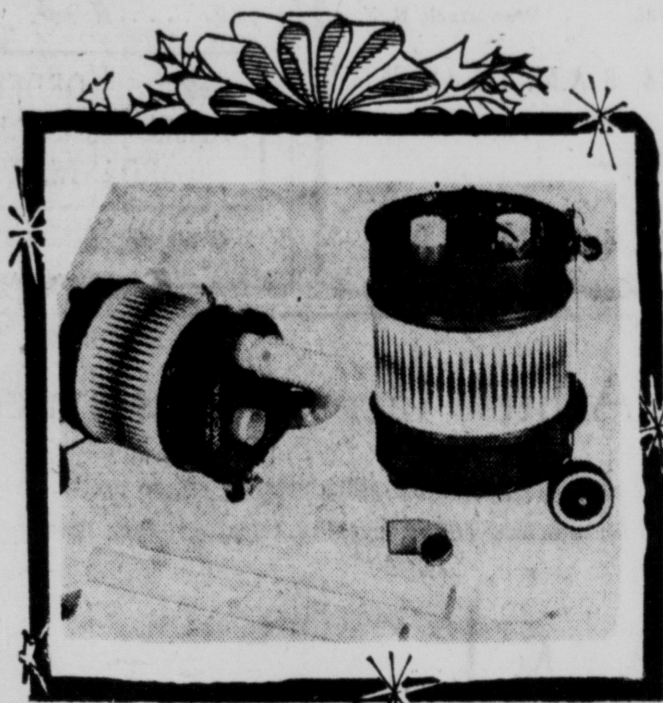

ALBANY, N. Y. (UPI)—Gov. Rockefeller continued the post-election shuffle in his cabinet Wednesday by announcing the retirement of Industrial Commissioner Martin P. Catherwood and naming a new Department of Correction commissioner. Catherwood, 66, former dean of the School of Industrial Relations at Cornell University, was one of the original Rockefeller appointees when the governor first took office in 1959. He will be replaced by his deputy commissioner, Louis Levine, a former AFL-CIO official. As director of Community Services and Rehabilitation for the New York City Central Labor Council from 1963-66, Levine was a close associate of Harry Van Arsdale, who played a key role in obtaining the state AFL-CIO endorsement for Rockefeller's re-election this year. Catherwood said he had "no other plans than to get home and help Mrs. Catherwood shovel the driveway, mow the lawn and several other things." Russell G. Oswald, chairman of the state Parole Board, was named correction commissioner to replace Paul McGinnis, 66, who announced his retirement earlier this week. McGinnis had asked before the election to be relieved of his duties "because of health reasons."

Senate to Probe Surveillance Reports

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A Senate subcommittee will conduct a formal probe of reports by a former U.S. Army intelligence agent that the military spied on federal and state officials, including Sen. Adlai E. Stevenson III. Sen. Sam J. Ervin, D-N.C., said Wednesday the officials were the targets of Army undercover investigations during their campaigns or while they were in office. He charged they were placed under surveillance because they opposed or did not actively support the government's policy in Vietnam or because they disagreed with the domestic policies of the Nixon administration. A spokesman for the Army said the service was "gravely concerned" over Ervin's charges. He said such surveillance of civilians was prohibited by Army policy. The White House said it was "inconceivable" to President Nixon that the military would spy on political figures. Other congressmen responded with angry words. "We have reached a frightening state of military control in this country," said Rep. Abner Mikva, D-Ill. "The whole concept of civilian control of the military is in jeopardy."

The former Army intelligence agent who made the reports was identified as John M. O'Brien of Evanston, Ill., who had held the rank of staff sergeant and for a one-year period starting in June, 1969, was assigned to the Midwest office of the 113th Military Intelligence Group in Chicago. O'Brien said he was "a domestic spy for the Army" and he stated the intelligence group maintained a "subversive file" that contained dossiers on 800 individuals in Illinois alone, including Steven Ervin, former Gov. Otto Kerner, now a federal circuit court judge, Mikva and the Rev. Jesse Jackson of Chicago, who heads the anti-poverty Operation Breadbasket project of the Southern Christian Leadership Conference. Ervin promised the Senate Constitutional Rights Subcommittee would hold hearings in February on the intelligence agent's reports. By February, Ervin said, he hoped the Army "will have fully disclosed all that it has done and that it can assure us it is no longer happening at any levels." He demanded assurances from the Army that it would halt domestic spying operations immediately.

Coast Guard Finds Schooner

NEW YORK (UPI) — The Coast Guard said Wednesday it had located the schooner "Star of the Pacific," thought to have been missing in the Atlantic.

The Coast Guard said the vessel — believed to be the largest privately owned pleasure craft under a U.S. flag — was never in trouble but had temporarily lost radio contact with shore.

The 38-foot, three-masted schooner, formerly owned by industrialist Conrad S. Mikulec of Buffalo, N.Y., had not been heard from since it left Halifax, Nova Scotia, bound for Fort Lauderdale, Fla., about one week ago.

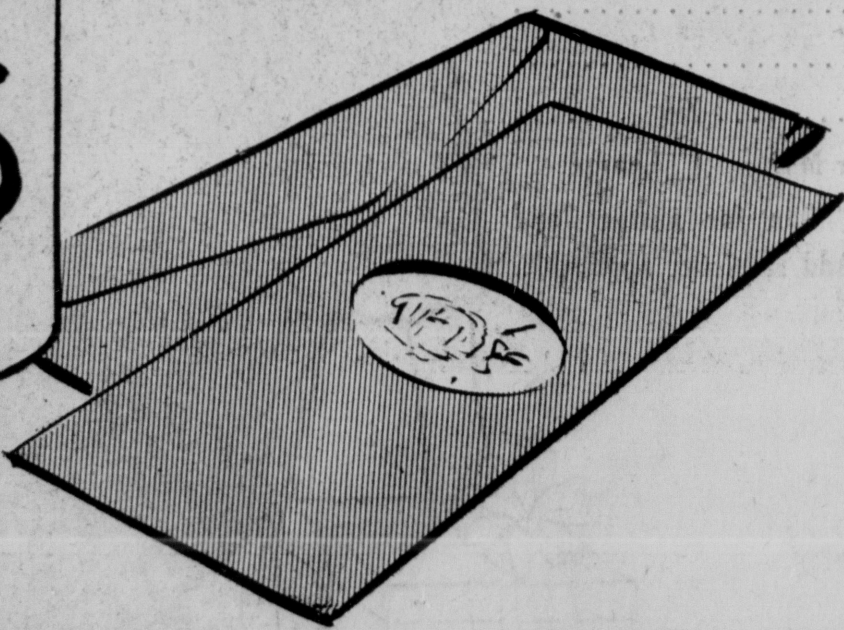

The Coast Guard said the boat was proceeding at eight knots about 200 miles southeast of Charleston, S.C., and expected to reach Fort Lauderdale Sunday on schedule.

Doody Named Systems Manager at Local IBM

DANIEL T. DOODY

KINGSTON
Earl F. Wheeler, director of the IBM Systems Development Division Laboratory at Kingston, has announced the promotion of Daniel T. Doody to systems manager, Information Display Systems.

In his new position at Kingston, Doody will be responsible for market planning and business controls as well as engineering development and programming support for Information Display Systems.

Doody joined IBM in 1955 as a junior engineer at the company's Poughkeepsie location and progressed through several positions. In September 1965, he was promoted to manager of Laboratory Operations at Poughkeepsie. Doody is a graduate of the Polytechnic Institute of Brooklyn where he received a bachelor's and masters degree in electrical engineering.

Ford Classroom Visits Kingston

KINGSTON The latest "better idea" from Ford Motor Company—a mobile service training classroom—will be in Kingston this week to provide specialized instruction to service technicians from 15 area Ford dealerships.

The mobile classroom, a 40-foot van worth $90,000, is designed to offer service technicians instant access to the newest auto service and repair procedures.

The van contains six work stations as well as rear screen and opaque projectors. It can accommodate 12 persons per session.

James Ryan, Ford Division training specialist, conducts the instructional sessions. He noted that his classes in Kingston will deal primarily with pollution control dealing with fuel and exhaust emission parts.

While in Kingston, the van will be stationed at Johnson Ford, Inc., on Route 28 at the Thruway Circle.

Grand Union Sales Up 8 Pct. for Month

EAST PATERSON, N. J. Sales of The Grand Union Company for the five weeks ended November 28, 1970, totaled a record $120,564,203, an increase of 8.3 per cent over sales of $111,308,711 in the comparable period of 1969.

For the first 39 weeks of Grand Union's 1970 fiscal year, through November 28, sales were $884,592,266. This represents a new high for a similar nine-month period and an increase of 8 per cent over sales of $819,270,317 in the corresponding period a year ago.

State Builders Name Hankin Vice President

NEWBURGH Sam Hankin of Poughkeepsie, one of the leading home builders of the Hudson Valley, has been elected first vice president of the New York State Builders Association.

The New York State Builders Association is composed of 3,000 member builders from all sections of New York State and maintains its headquarters at Albany. Hankin's election took place at the annual convention of the State Builders Association held recently at Paradise Island in the Bahama Islands.

Hankin's election as first vice president virtually assures his selection as president of the New York State Builders Association a year hence. Hankin is both a former treasurer and secretary of the New York State Builders Association and a past president of the Home Builders Association of the Hudson Valley. He is also a director of both the State Builders Association and of the National Association of Home Builders. He is presently a member of the important Legislative and Banking Committees of the state unit and a member of the Mortgage Finance Committee of the National Association.

Hankin, who specializes in the construction of single family homes and apartments, is a graduate of St. John's University, Brooklyn. During his career as a home builder his organization has built over 6,000 homes. A member of the City of Poughkeepsie Zoning Board of Appeals, Hankin, in the past has also been very active in the Boy Scout movement. He is a former District Commissioner of the Dutchess County Council and in 1952 the Hankin family was honored at the "Scouting Family of the Year" in a ceremony at Waldorf-Astoria Hotel in New York.

A member of the Temple Beth-El and the Harding Club, Poughkeepsie, Hankin resides with his wife, Sylvia, at 20 Monell Avenue, Poughkeepsie. The Hankins are the parents of four children, Robert, Stuart, Jerrard, and Lynne.

F. L. Russell, Regenbogen on NYBCD Board

ALBANY Fabian L. Russell, president of the F. L. Russell Corporation, Mt. Marion and Meyer Regenbogen, president of the First National Bank and Trust Company, Ellenville were elected to the Board of Directors of the New York Business Development Corporation for the Mid-Hudson Region, at the group's annual meeting recently.

In reviewing achievements of the Corporation, newly elected NYBCD Board Chairman John A. Stefan of New York City, former president of the group, noted that it had passed the $100 million mark in loan approvals and it called on the federal government to support a heavier calendar of loan disbursements during the past year. The statewide group emphasizes corporate lending activities.

Also elected to post on the Board of Directors from the Mid-Hudson region were Thomas M. Chadwick, vice president of the Columbus Trust Company, Newburgh and Edwin T. Strong, vice president of Central Hudson Gas and Electric Corporation, Poughkeepsie.

Race to Moscow

Former Secretary of State Dean Acheson advised President Nixon this week that West German Chancellor Willy Brandt should be "cooled off" as part of an effort to slow down the "mad race to Moscow."

With Acheson were Thomas E. Dewey, John J. McCloy and Lucius D. Clay, the latter two early military governors of Germany. One pointed out that Brandt was "writing the World War II peace treaty, while the allies are on the sidelines." Another said that much of Brandt's Ostpolitik depends on a Berlin settlement and there are fears in Washington that the chancellor will settle for too little. Also, that West Germany, rather than the United States, Britain and France, was calling the tune.

All of these fears are well founded. On the other hand, the war has been over for 25 years. The allies have been prevented from writing a peace because of Soviet recalcitrance. Not until Brandt, a Socialist, came to power, has the Kremlin begun to move, and then on terms yet to be fully revealed.

While Germany is most concerned, the fate of all Europe, and to a large extent, of the United States, is being bargained between Moscow and Berlin. There is insufficient coordination with the allies who maintained West German defense and still post armies on West German soil. Brandt would be well advised to cool it before he lands in Moscow's lap.

Catastrophic Illness

The financial burden of catastrophic illness would be lifted from most of the nation's under-65 population by federal insurance, much as it is taken care of now by Medicare for most of those over 65, under a plan approved by the Senate Finance Committee, 13 to 2.

Benefits would cover 80 per cent of a family's annual health costs in excess of $2,000. It would begin paying for hospital care after the 60th day.

The bill is a rider to a popular Social Security cash benefit measure, which is now loaded with so many riders that Majority Leader Mike Mansfield said, "If the Lord walked on water, maybe" the omnibus bill could be passed this year.

But the committee action is a preview of what may be expected early in the new Congress next month. It is estimated that the measure would cost $2.2 billion, obviously a very low figure when it is realized that it covers 80 per cent of the cost of major illness for persons under 65 and that hospital costs are rising faster than almost any other services today. Humane and considerate as this legislation may be, in the present state of the economy it is fair to ask, where will the money come from?

Rules for the Tree

It is one of life's small, cruel ironies that the Christmas tree, the very symbol of joy in this joyous season, also can become a focal point of tragedy. The glistening evergreen is peculiarly vulnerable to fire.

This is not true to as great an extent as in the days of tree candles. Yet the hazard remains great. Fortunately, it can be minimized if householders will take sensible precautions.

The location of the tree is important; it should be kept away from the areas of heavy traffic in the home, and away from radiators. The wiring of tree lights should be checked with care to forestall short circuits. Decorations that might easily catch fire should be discarded. The tree's stump should be cut diagonally and placed in water. Following these simple rules will help to keep the holiday a happy one.

Holiday Drivers

It is unfortunate that the upsurge in traffic during the holiday season so often coincides with the worst possible weather. It is particularly unfortunate and often tragic that drivers don't seem to recognize or compensate for the added hazards of winter driving.

With the snow we already have, area residents shouldn't have to be reminded that snow during the winter months here is inevitable. Motorists also should realize that vehicles must be winterized and that their driving style must be changed. A performance on ice and snow is nowhere near that on dry pavement and that speeds must be sharply reduced and greater following distances observed. Reduced visibility and inadequate traction are two other winter-driving hazards.

With Ulster County highway fatalities climbing, more emphasis must be placed by motor vehicle operators on common-sense precautions.

With 8.8 million persons enrolled in food stamp programs, $5 denominations soon will be issued to needy families in addition to the $2 stamps, the largest now available. Like all other forms of welfare, the cost is skyrocketing. Inflation has reached the very poor.

"Hey, This Is a Private Fight!"

David Lawrence Says Connally Gives Nixon Cabinet Bipartisan Aspect

WASHINGTON — What may seem to the average observer who reads about "changes in the cabinet" as just a shift in personnel due to trouble in policy-making is really the same old story — a President of the United States is trying to transfer individuals who can function effectively somewhere else in the complex machinery of the biggest government in the world.

Cabinet officers take their jobs with relatively little previous knowledge of what their departments do. Secretary of the Treasury David Kennedy, who is resigning to become Ambassador-at-Large in matters of international finance, is an experienced man generally in his field. But it would take anyone a long time to learn how to be the administrative officer of the Treasury Department, which includes the Internal Revenue Service, the Bureau of Customs, the Office of Comptroller General, the Bureau of Engraving and Printing, the United States Mint, and the Secret Service.

Robert Finch, who was Secretary of the Department of Health, Education and Welfare, and resigned to become a counselor to the President, presided over a huge department. It includes not only the Social Security Administration, but the Office of Education, the Food and Drug Administration, the National Institutes of Health, the Health Services and Mental Health Administration, the Environmental Control Administration, and the National Air Pollution Control Administration.

Secretary of Labor George Shultz, who resigned from the Nixon cabinet in June, was in charge of a department which embraces the Manpower Administration, the Labor-Management Services Administration, the Bureau of Wage and Labor Standards, and the Bureau of Labor Statistics. After his resignation, he became director of a new Office of Management and the Budget in the White House.

These shifts do not indicate a dissatisfaction with the individual but an attempt to find persons who can take over administrative matters as well as policy-making roles.

Elliott Richardson, now Secretary of Health, Education and Welfare, had previously served as Assistant Secretary of HEW and as Under Secretary of State, so he has had training in administrative jobs.

James D. Hodgson moved up to become Secretary of Labor after holding the post of under secretary for 28 months, so he was familiar with the functioning of the Department.

A president, of course, wants a good administrator for each department who also can contribute to policy-making. What most of the appointees lack is experience in government. In private life they have been in certain professions for businesses that are useful, but when it comes to overseeing government operations, different problems arise.

Mr. Nixon's choice of former Governor Connally of Texas enables him to put into the treasury someone who has served in the cabinet before — as Secretary of the Navy under President Kennedy — and knows the background of the job of running a department. This often isn't possible for a new administration.

The present system has many faults. Probably the answer lies in putting the management of each executive department in the hands of a general manager. He would be a career public servant. Cabinet officers would be appointed as advisers to the President with supervisory power over the departments, particularly in the formation of public policy. It's too much to expect new appointees to learn intimately the operations of the many bureaus and divisions of the government in a short period and at the same time to participate in decision-making.

President Nixon relies heavily upon advisers to help him reach decisions. He now has a group of counselors who work in the White House and maintain regular contacts with different departments to get essential information. They do not themselves, however, perform any administrative duties. This at least is an advance.

The appointment of Mr. Connally, who is a Democrat, gives the Nixon cabinet a bipartisan aspect. While it has some political advantages to the administration, the probability is that the appointment was made largely because he is a versatile individual and can assist the President in handling the big fiscal problems that the treasury must deal with today. Also, as a former governor familiar with the financial woes of state governments, he can be especially helpful in working out federal and state revenue-sharing programs.

Enemy Sat Mute

Pact Never Made With Hanoi on Bombing Halt

By BRUCE BLOSSAT
NEA Washington Correspondent

WASHINGTON (NEA) — Despite President Nixon's contrary assertions, no "understanding" — in the sense of a two-party agreement — was reached between Washington and Hanoi over conditions attached to the bombing halt we initiated in North Vietnam on Oct. 31, 1968.

The President has just reiterated that such an understanding was arrived at, and that Lyndon Johnson and two former top associates have said so. The arrangement is said to call for North Vietnam to refrain from shelling South Vietnamese cities, to end the transit of troops across the border demilitarized zone and to tolerate reconnaissance flights by our planes over parts of North Vietnam.

Highly placed sources familiar with the Paris talks between the parties say that not even in the most private circumstances did Hanoi agree to any of this. Our negotiators instead heard Hanoi flatly declare it would never accept any conditions as the price of a continuing bombing halt.

Facing this impasse, U.S. officials finally met privately with Hanoi's representatives, away from the conference table, and took a new tack. One source says that, in simplified outline, this is what we told our adversaries: "We are making a unilateral decision to stop the bombing. How long the halt goes on will depend on two things — your not shelling South Vietnamese cities, and not crossing the DMZ in force."

There was no visible or audible assent to this by Hanoi's people. Whereupon a U.S. official asked: "Do you hear us?"

At this turn, a North Vietnamese spokesman replied: "We hear you."

Next an American negotiator asked: "Do you understand what we are saying?"

Again, a North Vietnamese official spoke: "We understand."

Discussion of those two conditions fixed by us never went beyond that point. It was an "understanding" only in the sense that Hanoi, by its own word, clearly grasped our intent. It agreed to nothing.

As for our plan to mount reconnaissance flights over North Vietnam, there was even less interchange.

We simply notified Hanoi of our intent to overfly to check on possible Communist build-ups near the DMZ. This word was received in silence.

In the view of the high sources I consulted, this in no way constituted an understanding.

Blame for the distortion of these conversations may not basically be Nixon's, since he unquestionably is acting upon reports gleaned from others. But my sources are beyond impeachment.

Jack Anderson Says $45 Million Worth of Raw Pornography Pours Into U.S.

WASHINGTON — Raw pornography, some of it smuggled through customs in children's toys, is flooding the U.S.

A confidential Customs Bureau report, citing Research Institute figures, declares that "American currency sent to foreign countries for pornography" has jumped in the past four years from $3 million to $45 million annually.

At the same time, home-produced pornography has become a multi-billion-dollar business.

Filthy foreign films have been stashed inside little girls' kitchen utensils and toy plastic telephones. These 8 mm. rolls show "acts of heterosexual activity, acts of bestiality, and various erotic portrayals (photographed) with extreme explicitness," states the Customs document.

The confidential report, submitted to the Senate Juvenile Delinquency Subcommittee, explains: "Exploitation of American purchasers is due to the fact that the publication and sale of such materials in Denmark has been freed from all government control and that Sweden's government control is minimal."

Across the U.S., postal authorities received 392,782 complaints about obscene mail in 1969. About 35 per cent was addressed to juveniles, some sent in care of elementary schools.

Dodd's Collection

The Senate subcommittee using a variety of addresses, has collected a compost pile of pornography. Chairman Tom Dodd, D-Conn., has kept it in a secret drawer with a combination safe dial.

His rank collection includes pictures from abroad of dogs, pigs, and children in positions that are degrading even for the livestock, much worse the youngsters who appear no more than nine or ten years old. From domestic sex-plosters, he has accumulated sexual devices, a rock candy lollipop in the shape of a sexual organ and incredible pictures combining ghastly murders and sex practices.

In a report prepared for the Senate but not yet made public, Dodd declares that pornographers gross "several billion dollars a year." Some of it, he says, is thinly disguised as "scientific" data.

For example, a Los Angeles publisher reprinted the Denmark Royal Commission Report on pornography, illustrated it with filthy pictures and is now charging $4.75 for it. Another publisher took a Ph.D. paper on "Anal Eroticism," illustrated it abundantly with photographs and listed an impressive looking bibliography in the back.

Anyone who receives dirty mail can instruct the Post Office to demand that his name be taken off the mailing list. But as Dodd's unpublished report to the Senate points out, "a good way to get a child to look at something is to tell him not to look at it (The smut merchant) knows that a child is flattered to receive any mail at all."

Washington Expose

HUSH MONEY — The Nixon Administration has offered consultant fees, apparently as hush money, to three of Interior Secretary Walter Hickel's aides whose were purged with him last month. Leslie Glasgow, the assistant secretary in charge of fish, wildlife and parks, has been retained for 90 days as a $114-a-day consultant to complete work on the disappearance of hardwood swamps in the South. His deputy, Charles Meacham, has also been offered $114 a day for three months to consult on predatory birds and animals. And Hickel's information chief, Josef Holbert, has been slipped on the consultants' roll at $100 a day until February 28. These generous fees apparently are intended to keep the trio from talking to the press about their dismissal.

AYRES' GENEROSITY —

Bill Ayres, the lame-duck Congressman from Akron, Ohio, has left good-bye gifts for 10 staff members. It's the taxpayers, however, who'll have to foot the bill. The amiable Ayres approved handsome salary increases for 10 House Labor Committee aides who served directly under him. Researcher Norma Chiriboga, for instance, had her pay hiked from $11,000 to $20,000 a year, and minority clerk Will Henderson was given a raise from $9,000 to $15,000.

RUG SYMBOL — A sure clue to a bureaucrat's importance is his rug. His VIP standing can be determined by its color, acreage and plushness. How deep for example, do you sink in it? At the State Department, Secretary Bill Rogers and his two Undersecretaries are entitled to beige carpets of luxurious thickness. However, the new Undersecretary, John Irwin, installed an ivory white rug which was close enough to the exclusive beige color to satisfy him. Rogers exhibits his ascendancy over his Undersecretaries by spreading an oriental rug over his beige carpet. Deputy Undersecretaries pace on gold tweed rugs and the Assistant Secretaries have gold and green rugs of lesser quality. At the Treasury Department, outgoing Secretary David Kennedy spent half his renovation money on a $5,774 oriental rug. And in the Transportation Department's new building, a luxurious green carpet has been laid even in front of Secretary John Volpe's private elevator. A spokesman explained its part of a new color-coding to help visitors find their way around. Eventually, he said, all lobbies will be carpeted in green, gold, blue or red. These will match plastic color-coded directory signs.

HEALTH'S MISSION — The special Anglo-American relationship that has existed since the end of World War II deteriorated after Richard Nixon came to power in 1968. The British Labor government simply didn't see eye-to-eye with the Nixon Administration, causing the partnership between the two countries quietly to dissolve. Now that the conservatives have taken over the British government, a new effort will be made to reestablish the Anglo-American partnership. This will be pushed by Prime Minister Edward Heath during his Washington visit.

MIDDLE EAST — The U.S. is making quiet preparations to beef up its military strength in the Middle East. U.S. forces recently joined British and Iranian ships, for example, in naval operations in the Persian Gulf.

The U.S. is also sounding out Greece and Turkey about strengthening NATO military facilities.

Christmas Is Back Again On Communist Countries

By LEON DENNEN

NEW YORK (NEA) — Christmas is back again in the Communist countries as a festival for children, an occasion for family gatherings, and the warmest and most popular of all religious celebrations.

Yet for over half a century the Marxist-Leninist materialists tried hard to discredit Christmas as a relic of "religious superstition" and "capitalist decadence." They even replaced Santa Claus with the Russian-style Father Frost.

It is a measure of how things are changing in the Red world that Communist East Germany which abolished all religious holidays recently was forced to restore officially a two-day Christmas holiday "because of long-standing tradition."

Father Frost has been a dismal failure in this competition with Santa Claus. The Marxist-Leninist ideology, it is increasingly clear, never replaced religion and belief in God.

Soviet sociologists finally concede that "measures to reeducate people in the spirit of atheism," and repress believers (through physical intimidation, fines, imprisonment and so on) "have not justified themselves."

They are even beginning to question, however cautiously, Lenin's pet theory that the "Communist transformation of society" will cause religion simply to die a natural death.

Recent sociological studies published in Moscow indicate that religious activity in the Soviet Union, especially of the young, is unprecedented in the history of the Communist regime.

Religious traditions are not only maintained in families of the older generation but are gaining ground among young workers, students, intellectuals and even Red army officers.

What particularly irks Communist bureaucrats is the fact young people, including members of the Young Communist League, no longer bother to conceal their faith.

Here is how the official atheist publication entitled "Against an Illusion of Happiness" describes a religious service in Leningrad:

"At one Baptist meeting there were several hundred young believers. The choir in the Leningrad Baptist House of Prayer was composed mainly of young men and women. These were only Baptists, of course. Young people in Leningrad also visit Orthodox and Catholic churches, the Jewish synagogue and the Moslem mosque."

The Kremlin rulers are baffled by the religious upsurge. The Central Committee's newspaper, Sovetskaya Rossiya, castigated in a recent, front-page editorial officials who ignore the fact that "many members of the Communist party" are having their children baptized.

"This is going on despite the fact that Karl Marx said that religion is the opiate of the people" the editorial complained.

Communists were urged to substitute civil rituals for the religious rites that accompany baptism, marriage and birthdays.

But it is religious rites — in contrast to the drabness and dullness of civil rituals — that play no small psychological role in attracting youth to the church.

The following words, written by a girl after her first visit to a church, gives an adequate impression of the emotional impact of religious rites.

"The magnificence and solemnity of the service astonished me. The choir sang so beautifully, and people all around wept openly."

The Spirit of Christmas

Millions Are Willing to Get Involved

Do all the good you can,
In all the ways you can,
For all the people you can,
While you can.

By TOM TIEDE

WASHINGTON (NEA) — You may have heard the story of the judge who, after calling back a very slow jury, asked: "Have you reached a decision?" "Yes, sir," the foreman said, putting on his hat and coat. "We've decided not to get involved."

A decade ago the joke was popular, apropos and thus funny. No longer. For in this holiday season of 1970 it is clear the chuckle no longer fits. It may be a time of desperate trial for the Spirit of Christmas, but more and more Americans have at least one saving and growing grace. They are totally, wonderfully involved.

With each other. There are more than a million voluntary organizations in the nation today whose passion is to help the needy. There are more than 320,000 churches and synagogues whose ambition is to help everybody. There are also some 2,000 United Funds, in excess of 6,000 private foundations and more than 100,000 voluntary welfare agencies.

After a national poll not long ago, George Gallup estimated that 61 million Americans would be willing to contribute 245 million man-hours every week to benefit others. As James Pitt, spokesman for the National Center for Voluntary Action here, points out: "This is more than twice as much time as all the civilian employees of the federal government put in." And according to the Department of Labor the financial manifestation of all this do-gooding may amount to $30 billion by the end of the decade.

Most definitely, brotherhood is alive and well. Much of the involvement is group-formed. Some of it large and traditional. The United Community Funds and Councils of America has 18 million volunteers. The American Heart Association and the Red Cross split just under 5 million between them.

But it is the stirrings and shenanigans of the smaller, even obscure groups which take the chill off the nation's heart this Christmas. They may have 100 members, or maybe only one. Yet they are truly service groups for all seasons.

Like the Flying Samaritans of San Diego. Made up of 60 doctors and 20 nonmedical volunteers, the organization donates nearly $1 million worth of service yearly to impoverished Mexicans. Pilots offer their time and airplanes to fly the physicians to a dozen remote villages every month where 500-600 patients are treated.

Or, on a more down-to-earth level, the National Story League, mainly composed of women, spends its time brightening the days and imaginations of indigent or immobile children. League President Mrs. Paul Detrich of Altoona, Pa., says stories are told at playgrounds, hospitals, nurseries — "anywhere children want us."

Then there is TARS (Teens Aid the Retarded) based in Austin, Tex. Director David Sloane says the group encourages young people to acquaint themselves with the problems of the mentally retarded. Teen-pals, home care, camping—in effect the program is designed to help normal and abnormal kids to understand each other.

The list goes on seemingly forever. In Bridgewater, Mass., there is a group called "Music for Misfits" which teaches instruments to reform-school inmates. In Staunton, Va., there is a Sew A Seam, which prepares hospital gowns for the poor sick. Philadelphia young people have organized a phone-a-friend service (called HELP) whereby people with problems have an oral shoulder to lean on. Vietnam Gift Pac in California puts together 25,000 boxes of 28 items each month and sends them to stuck-away GIs. Operation Bedpost in Concord, Calif., supplies mattresses and springs to unfortunate families. Students at Southern Illinois University at Carbondale offer free rat extermination to slum dwellers. And Christopher Cabs in Powell, Tenn., provides free transportation service for orphans.

In many cases, this group goodness is largely the responsibility of single individuals.

Gary Hill of Lincoln, Neb., donates his full time to traveling Jaycee chapters among inmates. Detroit janitor Bronson Gentry has quietly accomplished near-miracles in the rehabilitation of his black neighborhood (he won a $5,000 award for his volunteerism last year, then gave most of it out anonymously in Christmas baskets). Former Judge Keith Leenhouts of Royal Oak, Mich., has devotedly organized a national program to assign concerned citizens on a one-to-one basis to help rehabilitate youthful prison graduates.

To be sure, most of the individuals and groups are unprofessional. So they make mistakes. But President Nixon has called them "a measure of our neglected opportunity." And he is right. Ten million Americans under 25 need mental health treatment, as many as 34 million are deprived of material goods, 2.5 million go to jail annually, 6 million are problem drinkers, 200,000 are drug addicts. All the money in the nation can't help them. But maybe all the people in the nation can.

NASS: They Suggest a Suggestion

By ROBERT WISCHMEYER

CLEVELAND (NEA) — "Suggestions are probably the last avenue for expressing individuality — almost everything else is done through group action these days."

Most assembly line workers, technicians or white collar employees probably would agree with that observation by Charles Foos, vice-president of the National Association of Suggestion Systems (NASS), whose business it is to encourage workers to develop ideas for making their companies more profitable.

"The man or woman on the job is closer to it than a supervisor," Foos explains, "so he or she can spot ways in which costs can be cut or time can be saved. And time is money. Suggestion systems also enable supervisors to point out to dissatisfied workers that if they have a better way to do the job, then let it be known."

A good case for Foos' point is Gordon L. Puckett, United Airlines flight officer who received an award as "Suggestor of the Year" at the recent NASS international conference, its 28th, in Cleveland.

Puckett was honored because he saved his company more than $450,000 in one year. He had shown United that shifting loads slightly to the rear would reduce fuel consumption.

Puckett received 10 per cent of the savings, or $45,850. Some companies give as high as 50 per cent of the first year's savings. The largest award in 1969 was $68,820 by IBM Corporation. Average awards increased from $52.05 to $55.99 and more than $43 million were awarded in about 10,000 participating plants.

Founded in 1942, the non-profit NASS fosters use of suggestion systems as a modern practical element of efficient management. Foos points out:

"Suggestion systems are closely allied to other management techniques, including work simplification, value analysis, methods improvement, quality control, and virtually all programs which seek to enlist employee participation."

Through an office at 435 N. Michigan Ave., Chicago, NASS gathers information from 6,000 corporate and governmental suggestion systems in the United States, Canada and abroad. By means of a newsletter, reports, studies, a seminar and the annual conference, NASS enables member companies in 20 local chapters to share this knowledge.

"For example," Foos comments, "General Motors has a suggestions system director at the corporate level, full time. Smaller operations may assign an officer to suggestion systems work as a corollary duty. But large or small, all can learn from each other."

A General Motors officer, Herbert F. Shain of the Fisher Body Division, is turning over the NASS president's reins this year to Harold Walker of Air Canada in Montreal.

Up to 70 per cent of the major companies in the United States have suggestion systems and federal government agencies, both civilian and military, participate regularly in the NASS program.

The oldest suggestion system listed with NASS is 72 years old, the youngest eight months. More than three million suggestions were received by NASS companies last year.

Chasing Charlie Churns St. Paul's Citizenry

By LEE MUELLER

ST. PAUL (NEA)

The most controversial person in Minnesota these days is a former garbage disposal installer named Charlie McCarty who is becoming famous as the Super Mayor of St. Paul.

It has taken Charlie a long time to become a Super Mayor. He is 50. Twelve years ago, he was an alcoholic. Three years ago he was broke. Now, he charges around St. Paul in his Super Car—a big limousine—chasing criminals, chasing fire engines and generally creating uproar wherever he charges.

"You might say," said a City Hall observer, "that Charlie has been transformed from a plucked chicken into a strutting peacock."

For years, Charlie McCarty was a regular visitor at St. Paul city council meetings. Reporters called him a gadfly. "I was," said McCarty, "a constructive critic." Citizens became accustomed to reading Charlie's opinions on public matters along with the mayor's and Hubert Humphrey's.

Two years ago, the incumbent mayor announced he would not seek re-election and the idea struck several people, including Charlie McCarty, that he might make a good mayor. Running as an independent, he defeated 11 opponents to become St. Paul's first nonpartisan mayor. The day after the election, a newspaper headline read: "Charlie Wins!" "The people knew me," he said. "I ran a first-name campaign."

Since Mayor McCarty assumed office six months ago, St. Paul residents have become acquainted with the man they elected. "Some people love him," said a local reporter, "and some, I suspect, would like to impeach him."

A charming, flowery fellow with a warm smile and a quick handshake, McCarty is known mostly for the fact that he likes to prowl around St. Louis at night in his Super Car, looking for misdeeds.

Not so long ago, he witnessed a hit-and-run incident and ordered his driver, a police sergeant, to chase the fleeing car. The episode ended in a dead-end alley with the mayor leaping from his automobile and chasing the criminal on foot.

Another time, at a late-night restaurant, he rescued a waitress who was being harassed by a customer and had him arrested for disorderly conduct.

"I promised to make St. Paul the safest city in America during my campaign," he said, "and that's what I intend to do."

McCarty also is given to chasing fire trucks—an affection he does not take lightly. "I've been chasing fire engines all my life," he said. "I figured now was as good a time as any to do it—and do it in grand style," said.

The mayor is constantly in possession of at least one fire or police radio. Even when he is giving speeches, he keeps a small, portable radio on the podium.

"I just want to know what's going on," he said. Some activities surrounding Mayor McCarty's administration, however, have not been so unanimously appealing.

When Charlie disagreed with the Ramsey County Welfare Board, he fired the entire board. And the day the mayor accused a county official of nepotism, he hired his own son as a skimmer at the sewer works.

"I started off using a sledgehammer when a scapel would have done the job," McCarty said. "I've eased off some now. Anyway, there's a helluva lot more support for my position than there is opposing it."

At any rate, Super Mayor isn't losing any sleep over his popularity, or lack of it. For one thing, it's said he sleeps so little Morpheus barely knows him.

"I sleep like I eat," he said. "Only when I need it."

Sometimes, for instance, he likes to nap at the office. Before he purchased his new couch, Super Mayor used to take off his shoes, take out his false teeth and go to sleep on the carpet.

"I can sleep anywhere," he said.

Filibuster Over SST

WASHINGTON (AP) — A supersonic planes, roared his Senate filibuster aimed at ending federal subsidies for the supersonic transport has begun with an unusually bitter flare of tempers between the project's chief opponent and leading defender.

In the debates' opening hours Wednesday Sen. William Proxmire, D-Wis., asked Sen. Warren Magnuson, D-Wash., if his sponsorship of a bill to reduce the possible bad effects of faster-than-sound flights had been only a gesture to win Senate support for SST funding.

Magnuson, whose home state has most to gain from full production of a fleet of American supersonic planes, roared his Earlier, laying the groundwork for his attempt to talk the project to death, Proxmire won several admissions from SST supporters.

Sen. Alan Bible, D-Nev., floor manager of the $7-billion transportation appropriations bill containing a reduced SST prototype development budget, said action by a conference committee in reducing SST spending by $80 million eventually might add $150 million to the program's total cost and would be almost certain to cause "several thousand" of the 15,000 SST workers to be laid off soon.

MONTGOMERY
WARD

Christmas is that special time of year when gifts are generously given and graciously received. It's the time of year to spend days deciding what to get that special someone, and even more days hoping he will like it. If you want to put him in that mistletoe mood on Christmas morn (and for many months to come), give him a gift of man-scent from Wards complete selection.

(A) The adventurous type? Give him Yardley's Originals. After-shave, cologne and talc for the man who likes to strike out for new horizons. 6.25

(B) Sun worshipper, you say? Always tanned and fit? The Faberge West lotion and soother set is the only thing for him. He'll always wear it. $5

(C) He's debonair? Likes fine wine? Give him Royal Regiment Captain's Collection by Max Factor. Leather, Dry Lime and Oakmoss fragrances. 7.50

(D) If he wants to see the world, he'll need Nine Flags from Colton. Scents from Ireland, Hong Kong, Italy, Brazil and other faraway places. $18

(E) The sophisticated male is so hard to please. Nothing matches his aplomb more than Mem's English Leather set. After-shave, cologne and soap. $6

(F) He's the strong-willed Dr. Zhivago type? Send him Imperial del Oro's Russian Leather Gift Set! Comes with bracing after-shave and cologne. 6.50

(G) A professional man, a lawyer with responsibilities, Speidel's British Sterling. No-nonsense scent in brisk after-shave and cologne. $8

(H) What to get an old faithful, the sweet dependable type? Shulton's Old Spice, of course. His favorite scent in after-shave, cologne, soap. 4.75

(I) Blond, husky, rugged good looks. Nothing fits him better than Brut by Faberge. Get him the jet set lotion, creme shave and spray deodorant. 5.50

(K) Mysterious men are murder to buy for. If you have one, get his Jade East Four-some by Swank. After-shave, after-shower, cologne and deodorant. 4.50

Many Education Problems Ready for State Legislature

By BRUCE B. DETLEFSEN
AP Education Writer

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — The 1971 legislature will be swamped with bills designed to resolve a vast array of educational problems, highlighted by the continuing dilemma of how to get more state funds to hard-pressed local school districts.

The focal point so far is the legislative package proposed by the Board of Regents. It would increase state spending on education by $323 million in the next fiscal year, with about one-third of that amount earmarked for public elementary and secondary schools.

In addition, the State Education Department is expected to submit more than 100 measures of its own, while legislative committees and individual lawmakers will run a wide gamut with their proposals for improving New York's academic setup.

In the present fiscal year, the state is spending more than $3 billion on education. That's about 45 per cent of the total budget.

Yet, with home-owners protesting steep increases in local school taxes, the State University growing at a record clip and private colleges headed toward serious financial trouble, pressure is on the legislature to set aside considerably more state money for education programs next year.

Chances of big increases are slim, however, since Gov. Rockefeller is making austerity the watchword in Albany.

In any case, the lawmakers won't be able to sit back comfortably once they have found their answer to the problem of school financing in the 1971 session. Somewhere along the way, they will be asked to decide the fate of such innovations as dual enrollment, performance guarantee contracting and the extended school year, none of which involve immediate big cash outlays.

These three concepts are embodied in the regents' recommendations.

The board proposed in its dual enrollment plan to "authorize and require" public school districts to admit non-public-school students to science and occupational education courses in grades 10 through 12. This would mean, for example, that pupils in parochial schools could spend part of their class day taking physics or chemistry courses in public high schools. This proposal can be expected to become part of the inevitable legislative debate over state support of church-related schools, even though Education Commissioner Ewald B. Nyquist has said he did not intend to use dual enrollment as a solution to the financial problems of such institutions.

Performance guarantee contracting is a system under which private companies would perform certain instructional services, such as working with pupils who have poor reading achievement. Boards of education would reimburse these contractors on the basis of measurable pupil improvement within a specified time.

The regents would authorize local districts to enter into such contracts if the administrators wished to do so.

Performance contracting has been criticized by the New York State Teachers Association as a scheme to let big corporations make money off public education.

An extended school year proposal was defeated in the 1970 legislative session, but the plan appears to be gaining support. It would provide "equitable" state financial aid to school districts that operate year round with short, staggered vacations, instead of the traditional, long summer vacation.

In other areas, the regents and Education Department officials are urging the legislature to:

—Increase from $26 million to $41 million the amount of state aid to private colleges and universities through the so-called Bundy Program.

—Restructure New York's Scholar Incentive Program so that college students could receive a graduated scale of awards between the maximum of $800 and the minimum of $100.

—Expand demonstration programs and teacher training to help achieve the goal of offering pre-kindergarten to all disadvantaged children by 1973-74.

—More than double, to a total of $7 million, the state funding available to school systems that incur additional expenses when they act to correct racial imbalance.

While the regents gave comparatively little attention to the struggle of parochial and other private elementary and secondary schools to overcome their financial problems, that issue committee this year. That still will be very much alive in measure would provide tuition grants to parents who send their children to nonpublic schools, revive the so-called Speno-Ler with the state aid based on family income, which languished in its limbo.

An effort also will be made to double the $28 million program of support initiated this year. Private schools are receiving those funds to compensate them for such services as record keeping required by the state. In addition, it is likely that the legislature will complete its schools. Final approval would lead their pupils in silent prayer to forcing the regents to run for their posts in periodic elections.

prohibits direct or indirect state support of church-affiliated goals ranging from requiring teachers in public schools to lead their pupils in silent prayer to forcing the regents to run for their posts in periodic elections.

McGovern May Be the First

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. George McGovern, impelled by what he calls the frustration of powerlessness in the Senate, will soon become the first man to declare for the presidency in 1972.

But there may be political frustration ahead as McGovern begins an open campaign to overcome the lead he concedes Sen. Edmund S. Muskie holds over a crowded field of Democratic prospects.

When the South Dakota senator makes the official declaration next month, it will be but a formality. For more than a year he has waged an obvious if unannounced drive for the 1972 nomination.

"We've been working for over a year now, trying to see whether there was a basis for a candidacy," McGovern said in an interview. "I'm pretty well convinced there is."

It is a small one. One national poll ranks McGovern seventh on a list of eight potential candidates, the choice of two per cent of rank-and-file Democrats.

But the 48-year-old senator insists he can overcome the long odds. "I'm inclined to discount the polls at this point," he says. "All they do is give an indication of what your recognition factor is."

That indication can hardly be heartening. But, McGovern says, once he declares for the nomination a nationwide cadre will rally to him. "What I'm told is that if I'm serious about running, they'll be serious about supporting me."

He goes on: "My chances of getting the nomination depend on working on it over a long period of time. I don't think anyone is going to get it handed to him this time."

Compared to his most formidable prospective rivals—Muskie, Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, Hubert H. Humphrey—McGovern is little known, and he concedes he has an educational job in front of him to make his views known to the country.

And, because of his small recognition factor, the presidential primaries loom particularly important to McGovern. He needs a strong showing to prove he can win, and to attract support from the professional Democrats, now lining up with Muskie.

"I'm going into a number of primaries, but I haven't decided which ones," McGovern says. "If you can't do well in a number of primaries, you can't do well in the fall."

The first primary is in New Hampshire—solid Muskie territory. McGovern does not rule out a New Hampshire race, but says he would not expect to win there.

There is political peril in that, for if McGovern enters, Muskie would have someone to run against, and almost certainly someone to defeat. And that would make New Hampshire a far more valuable prize.

With all of these factors a high wall against his chances why does he bother?

"I suppose the thing that impels me to be a candidate," he says, "is that I just can't take the frustration any longer of sitting there in the Senate where you can see the mistakes that our national leadership is making, but are powerless to do very much about it."

"I have no trouble at all understanding the sense of frustration and powerlessness that afflict citizens across the country because I feel the same sense of it through these continuing policies that are weakening the nation, and I feel unable to do something about it."

"The chance to do something about it is in the presidency," McGovern says.

McGovern also claims he can do a better job than other prospective candidates in sharpening and defining the issues for the run against President Nixon.

For a decade, he says, he has been speaking "more accurately and more prophetically" about Southeast Asia than his rivals, as well as about the problems at home.

McGovern says the Vietnam war remains "the transcendent issue in American politics today."

It is an issue he has pushed, particularly as a chief sponsor of legislation to compel U.S. withdrawal by the end of next year.

The Hatfield-McGovern Amendment was defeated. But McGovern campaigned for it on national television and helped raise $500,000 to promote it. He was a key man, too, in a 1970 campaign drive that raised over $1 million for liberal Senate candidates.

And he still has the mailing lists of donors to those causes, a valuable commodity for a man who soon will be seeking support and contributions for a presidential campaign.

McGovern said he is confident he can raise the money to begin his campaign, and to operate his campaign outpost, located two blocks from the Capitol, where the current staff of five will be increasing in the months ahead.

He says $250,000 to $300,000 could finance "a pretty good campaign" during 1971. "It might go to twice that."

In 1972, of course, the cost would skyrocket, as the presidential primary season opens.

As heir to some support previously held by the late Sen.

Robert F. Kennedy, McGovern waged a brief, largely symbolic presidential campaign in 1968. He attracted a handful of votes — 146½ — on the Chicago convention roll call that nominated Humphrey for president. That effort was, in effect, an antiorganization candidacy; this one, McGovern says, is not.

"I don't want to emerge as the antiorganization candidate, but I'm not going to let the organization keep me from being a candidate, either," he says. "I don't intend to run against Ed Muskie, or to run against other Democrats," McGovern says. "I intend to run against Richard Nixon."

Rebel Indian Symbol of Peruvian Rule

LIMA, Peru (AP) — A rebel Indian leader who was tortured and executed almost 200 years ago for attempting to halt abuses by Peru's Spanish conquerors has been adopted as a symbol of the current military government's efforts to create "a new Peru."

Tupac Amaru II ranks second only to President Juan Velasco among those associated with the sweeping reforms enacted by the government which took over after the Oct. 3, 1968, coup ousting former President Fernando Belaunde.

Always a popular figure in Peruvian history, the rebel leader has been used in an effort to create a popular symbol of a nation emerging from four centuries of domination—first by Spanish conquerors and later by a wealthy landowning class and foreign companies.

Posters depicting Tupac Amaru which show an Indian with high-crowned hat and flowing hair are carried by marchers in pro-government demonstrations. The likeness also decorates government publications and is sold by street vendors.

Quotations attributed to the rebel leader, believed to have been a descendant of Inca royalty, are used as slogans by the government and by pro-government leftwing labor organizations.

A recent biography of Tupac Amaru, published in a Lima newspaper described the rebel leader as "the maximum symbol of Peruvian nationality and the maximum symbol of the rebellion of the Latin American peoples against all forms of exploitation and domination."

Born in 1740 or 1741 near Cuzco, Tupac Amaru II was the son of a local chieftan. He was educated in a school set up by the Spanish for children of Indian nobility, and became renowned for his efforts to convince the Spanish conquerors to ease their treatment of the Indians.

Pointing out that the Indian population was rapidly dying as a result of harsh treatment in the gold and silver mines, he carried his appeal to the viceroy in Lima, pleading that Indian lives be protected in the interests of the Spanish crown.

Turned down by the representatives of the viceroy, he headed a revolt in 1780 which was defeated by superior Spanish forces in 1781.

The rebel was captured by the Spanish, taken to Cuzco and on April 14, 1781, was executed. Although his rebellion failed, it was soon followed by others which ended with Peru's independence from Spain on July 28, 1821.

Mohawk Talks — Optimism

WASHINGTON (AP) — Striking Mohawk Airline pilots sat down at the bargaining table again today, as an air of optimism carried over from Wednesday meeting with company negotiators.

That session concerning the five-year-old contract dispute brought agreement on what a pilot spokesman called "13 items of a minor nature."

It was the first reported agreement on any phase of the talks which began Nov. 12, the day Mohawk's 386 pilots walked off their jobs. Capt. David Sundell, a negotiator for the Mohawk unit of the Air Lines Pilots Association did not elaborate on the agreement.

This week's talks follow a two-week breakoff in discussions. The strike has grounded Mohawk's 450 flights a day and resulted in layoffs for 2,500 air-line employees.

Nursing Home Criticized In Latest Report by Nader

WASHINGTON (AP) — Ralph Nader task force of six teen-agers charges that doctors, federal officials and nursing home owners are bedfellows in an epidemic of national neglect of decent care for the sick and the old.

A 346-page report, released Thursday, lashed out at a "serious lack of medical supervision" in the deaths of 25 patients from salmonella poisoning at a Baltimore, Md., nursing home where the illness went unreported for four days last July.

And it criticized the Social Security Administration, saying it delayed setting new safety standards after the death of 32 patients in a nursing home fire at Marietta, Ohio, earlier in the year.

"Out of sight, out of mind," is the way the nation treats its elderly, Nader said in a preface to the report.

The summer-long study was done for Nader by six teen-agers and their teacher from an exclusive private school in Connecticut. The group was headed by Claire Townsend, 18, daughter of Robert Townsend, author of the best-seller, "Up the Organization."

The report was issued as Nader and the girls prepared to testify before a Senate subcommittee hearing on nursing home care.

Despite more than $1 billion a year in federal aid, "80 per cent of the nursing homes that receive public tax dollars do not meet even minimal federal standards," the report said.

The task force described patients as victims of callousness and incompetence among nursing home staffs, neglected by their doctors, subjected to what it termed shocking drug abuse.

The report called for stricter enforcement of the federal standards that do exist, suggested medical reviews of homes by doctors, and backed better training for nursing aides.

But most of the report's recommendations consisted of a 20-page recitation of previous proposals by other task forces.

The girls, who are now college freshmen, spent the summer on the project, interviewing government officials and working a couple of days undercover in nursing homes. Their report was submitted to Nader in September and retouched by the consumer advocate's staff before its release.

SAFETY FACTOR — Louis Miller, president of the Boston Taxicab Drivers' Association, has taken to driving his cab at night with the family German Shepherd as a companion — and a guard against the increasing crime rate against drivers. Another taxicab driver was shot this week and is on the danger list at a Boston hospital — another was shot to death Saturday night in Boston's Roxbury section. (UPI TELEPHOTO).

Marbletown Discussion On Former Grange Hall

MARBLETOWN high in view of its age (more than 100 years) and that the Grange Hall had outlived its usefulness.

Smith said that a show of hands among the about 40 persons present indicated almost unanimous sentiment favoring tearing down the building. Discussion also centered on possible construction of a new town garage on Peak Road in Stone Ridge near the town-owned shale bank.

The supervisor said that cost estimates are being secured.

Two More A-Tests

YUCCA FLAT, Nev. (UPI)—Two underground nuclear tests were conducted Wednesday by the Atomic Energy Commission at its Nevada test site.

One explosion had a yield range of less than 20 kilotons and the other from 20 to 200 kilotons.

Financial and Commercial

NEW YORK (UPI)—The stock market opened irregularly higher on moderate turnover today.

Shortly after the opening, advances were leading declines, 131 to 106, on 422 issues crossing the tape. The Dow Jones industrial average, however, was off 0.34 at 818.23. In the steel group, U.S. Steel was off 1/4 to 29 1/2, while Bethlehem held unchanged at 20 1/2.

Eight Pupils Are Suspended From School

ROCHESTER, N.Y. (AP)—

Eight boy pupils have been suspended for periods ranging from a few weeks to the balance of the academic year for taking part in violence at Benjamin Franklin High School Nov. 23, officials say.

The suspensions, announced Wednesday, were in response to a get-tough policy against disorderly pupils established by School Supt. Herman R. Goldberg after the incident.

Five were suspended for assaulting other young people, two for assaulting faculty members and one for smashing windows, a school spokesman said.

Four were put out of school until June, one until January and three until the start of the spring semester Feb. 1. The latter four will be transferred to other schools and placed on probation, the spokesman said.

Fighting involving both Negro and whites erupted after a racial grievance session involving black pupils and school officials. Thirteen pupils and two faculty members were injured and four youths arrested.

Meanwhile, Wednesday, a group of 25 white pupils and parents, led by a former city schools commissioner, Dr. Lewis A. Cerulli, picketed in front of Franklin High for the fourth straight day.

Cerulli said the demonstrations would continue "until we know it's safe for our children to go back to Franklin." He said the 15 pupils taking part had not gone to school since the violence occurred.

Isolation of Thought, Meddling Staff Cited for Rift

WASHINGTON (AP) — Former Secretary of the Interior Walter J. Hickel says presidential staff members came between him and President Nixon, and created an "isolation of thought" at the White House.

Staff members meddled in department affairs, Hickel said, and may have tried to keep him away from the President because they feared he could persuade Nixon in favor of programs they opposed.

Hickel, fired by the President Nov. 25 after two stormy years in the Cabinet, told The Associated Press in an exclusive interview: "There is a direction going in the White House, at the staff level, that I disagree with."

He carefully avoided any criticism of President Nixon, however.

In fact, said Hickel, whenever he did see the President he found him receptive, ready to "light up" at a good idea.

Hickel, heading back to Alaska today—"to spend Christmas with friends, to rest, to think"—was vague on his future, but indicated he will try to bring a positive, hopeful attitude to the public—unlike the "negative" political campaign he said the Republican party waged this fall.

To the youth of America, whom he saw as disappointed at his dismissal, Hickel said: "Don't give up."

Here are excerpts from the interview:

Q—Gov. Hickel, how do you feel now about the hectic two years that ended with a personal dismissal by the President?

A—Men sometimes think to themselves, "If I ever get there, this is what I'll do," but so often when they get there, they really lose the reason why they wanted to get there. I never lost that reason....

And that's why I feel so free as I leave, because I have nothing to apologize for....

Q—After you were fired, you wondered out loud why the President had hired you in the first place; did he give you any idea, in the beginning, what he wanted you to do?

A—No, not at that time. His statement when he introduced me was that he wanted me to bring vision and a new approach to Interior, and that's exactly what I was trying to do. I was carrying out what I thought was not only my view—point but that of the administration, and at no time was I ever criticized by the President for those many controversial actions....

Q—You mean while you were secretary, the President was occasionally saying: "You're doing a good job?"

A—Yes. Especially on environment and pollution matters.

Q—Then how do you account for the strained relationship that developed between you and the White House?

A—Any man in the White House with those burdensome responsibilities can only react in the way the input gets to him.

Any reaction I had from the President was always on a positive, imaginative basis for solving problems. He'd light up when I'd talk to him about program proposals, like my 20-year financing plan for municipal waste-treatment construction. But that's one of the programs I lost, and I think I lost it because I never talked to the President directly again about it. I think it was lost at the staff level.

Q—But you seemed to have trouble getting to the President. You once said if you could have talked with him or his aide, John Ehrlichman, for five minutes, you would not have had to thought than an isolation of individuals. It was really an attitude. I think men who try too hard to run a negative campaign... A—I had never pushed as hard as I did that day. But it was more an isolation of totally free. I came to do a job, thought was not acceptable to not to get a job; to do a job for the American people.

WALTER J. HICKEL DISCUSSES FIRING

Q—What do you think America's youth will think about the chances of working within the present system after seeing you've got his problems with the administration....

Q—That sounds like the popular notion of a little "in-group" that this kind of thing had to happen.

A—I think many members of the White House staff got involved in departmental things far beyond necessity. I think they wanted to be helpful; it doesn't necessarily make them bad men. But if the system gets going in the wrong direction, it makes it impossible to solve some of the enormous problems we're faced with.

Q—You have also disagreed with the tactics of the 1970 Republican political campaign. How do you assess its effectiveness?

A—We had so many positive good things to talk about that there just wasn't any reason to run a negative campaign.... It was the negative attitude, more than anything, that I thought was not acceptable to than seeing problems solved. I think there's a life-style in America, changing. More and more, people are looking for people to solve problems, people that they can believe in, regardless of political affiliation.

More than anything, we have to motivate the people. It doesn't take billions of dollars to solve some problems. It takes the desire to solve those problems.

We've received thousands of telegrams and letters.... say, "He (Nixon) didn't fire a man," he fired an idea....

Q—What are your plans now, and do they include politics?

A—I have no ambitions other than going away.

That's the message that I'd like to carry.

I'm going home. But I'm not going away.

I'm going home. But I'm not going away.

Name Susan See For DAR Award

SAUGERTIES Daniel Y. Lee, principal of Saugerties Senior High School announced that Susan See has been selected by her fellow students and the high school faculty for the 1971 DAR "Good Citizenship Award." A high school senior, she has been chosen because she possesses, to an outstanding degree, the qualities of dependability, service, leadership and patriotism.

Miss See, who resides with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Wilbur F. See at 122 Livingston Street, is very active in her school. During her three years at the high school she has been a member of the Sigma Club, French Club, Student Government and the Sawyer yearbook staff. This year Miss See is treasurer of the Sawyer staff, secretary of the French Club, a participant in the "County Youth in Government" program and an administrative officer aid.

Miss See is to receive a certificate of award from the National Society, Daughters of the American Revolution, and is entitled to wear the DAR Good Citizens pin. She will also compete with other New York State Award winners for a college scholarship, awarding of which will be determined by the Executive Committee of the National Society.

Birds Top Dart Loop

SAUGERTIES The Golden Eagles stopped the West Camp Palatines' drive cold with a 3 to 0 defeat in this week's Saugerties Dartball League and strengthened its position in first place. The loss dropped the Palatines to fifth place position.

Second place Trinity blanked Glasco Vols 3 to 0 while third place Quarryville won a 2 to 1 split from Cementon Sportsmen. High Woods Sportsmen moved into the fourth slot with a 2 to 1 win over Centerville. St. Mary's won a 2 to 1 split from Centerville Vols.

All team captains when calling in Monday scores should give the names of their all-stars, two each for the home run, runs batted in and high average, for the all-star tournament Monday, Dec. 28, at 8 p.m. in the Legion Hall.

Woes for Large Cities

Money Is the Root of It All

WASHINGTON (AP) — Cleveland may close its police academy. Los Angeles may join New York and Detroit in laying off city employees and Philadelphia probably will cut back municipal services.

Money, of course, is the problem. The nation's largest cities are caught between a rock and a hard place—between rising wage and welfare costs and static income.

As a result, officials are warning that the already evident cutbacks in services may be only the beginning unless the federal government provides a money transfusion.

An Associated Press survey of nine cities gives this picture:

Boston
Increased veterans' benefits and teacher salaries have boosted the current budget $8 million over estimates while income remains as expected. Seventy per cent of the city's income is from property taxes, which local officials believe to be the highest in the nation at $156.80 per $1,000 valuation.

City Budget Director Richard Wall sees no way of increasing city income without a big boost in the property tax rate, say by another 30%.

Chicago
Projected expenditures for the year starting Jan. 1 are 6.5 per cent above 1970 while revenues are expected to rise only 4.8 per cent, despite a 17.7 per cent increase in the property tax. The city plans to hire 500 more policemen and 65 more environmental inspectors in 1971, but Budget Director G. Edward Bedore says federal aid will be needed after that if there is to be continued growth of services.

Cleveland

Strikes and economic recession have cut into returns from the city's 1 per cent income tax, dropping revenues $1.4 million below estimates. Police and firemen got automatic wage increases and the city then had to settle other wage demands, putting next year's bill for increased labor costs at $11.3 million, according to Finance Director Philip Dearborn.

Voters recently defeated an increase in the income tax to 1.8 per cent, and Mayor Carl B. Stokes threatened to cut the city's 13,300-man work force by 3,200, close the police academy and shut down winter recreation programs. Clevelanders would have to carry their own garbage to the curb, he said, because 400 garbage collectors would be laid off. Voters are now asked to approve a more modest tax increase to 1.6 per cent.

Detroit

Tax collections are running 2.6 per cent behind expectations, due in large measure to the general economic slowdown and the General Motors strike. Meanwhile, arbitrated wage increases for police and firemen have upped expenditures by more than $4 million, or 0.8 per cent.

Walter R. Greene, chief executive assistant to the mayor, says without increased outside aid he foresees a continued freeze on hiring of new employees except for police and health workers, drastically reduced purchases of new equipment and the possibility of more employee lay-offs. More than 400 were laid off for various times this budget period. "Even with these reductions, a substantial deficit would be inevitable," Greene said.

Houston

This Texas boom town is in better shape than most, officials say. Revenues are higher than expected this year, by $3 million. Deficits are prohibited by law. No tax increase is anticipated, and natural growth is expected to swell revenues again next year.

Los Angeles

The City of Angels has dipped into reserves for more than $25 million this year because of higher-than-expected outlays, mainly for salary increases and construction of a new city hall annex. The city expects only a 2 per cent rise in revenues next year, while expenditures historically have gone up at 11 per cent per year. Dr. C. Erwin Piper, city administrative officer, says that means that without new aid city job vacancies won't be filled next year. "As a last and stringent matter it may be necessary to lay off some employees or curtail the time worked by all employees and cut their hours and wages 10 per cent," he said. "As a last resort, we could curtail services to the city."

New York

The city recently laid off 500 employees and Mayor John V. Lindsay and 25 top officials took a $1,000-a-year pay cut. The size of New York's budget however —it's $7.7 billion not counting expenditures are up 3 per cent because of pay increases and positions mere gestures, since they will save only a little more than its aftermath. Officials forecast a 10 per cent rise in spending deficit at up to $300 million this year—mainly because of rapid increases in welfare—and Bud Mayor James H.J. Tate is fidgeting Director Edward Hamilton won't speculate on next year's city employees. Deputy Finance figures.

Philadelphia

City revenues are 1 per cent below expectations, while ex-

Director James L. Ferguson predicts a "general reduction in over-all city services" next year.

Albany Youth Wins Verdict Of $450,000

MANASSAS, Va. (AP) — An out-of-court settlement reached Wednesday just as a jury was returning to render a verdict has won a paralyzed Albany, N.Y. youth $450,000 from a New York swimming pool company.

Lawyers and court officials called Eric Schutz's settlement the largest in Virginia's history. The civil case was heard in Prince William Circuit Court.

According to testimony during the four-day trial, Schutz, 21, broke his neck when he dove into a pool owned by Robert and Elizabeth Freear in Woodbridge.

Schutz' lawyers claimed the youth, 18 at the time, struck a sloping underwater wall. They argued that Pacific Steel Pool Corp. of Latham, N.Y., had designed a pool "with hidden dangers" and allowed eight-foot springboards to be sold with such pools.

Defense lawyers contended the pool's design was proper for swimming.

The original suit, also filed in behalf of Schutz's parents asked for $3 million in compensation from the pool firm, the Freears, Aqua Slide-n-Dive of South Le Monte, Calif. and Blue Dolphin Inc., a Washington pool contractor.

A lawyer for Schutz said the accident had left the youth permanently paralyzed in both arms and both legs. No agreement was reached with the remaining three defendants, he said.

Dear Santa,

I changed my mind, please disregard my previous Christmas list.

Just came back from FASHION TOWN and found the grooviest PANT SET for only $10.00 that I just fell in love with.

And please bring me some of those luscious VELOUR SLACKS in those dreamy colors for only $12.00.

And there is a tremendous selection of BLOUSES that are so gorgeous and I'll leave it up to you to pick some out for me. So reasonably priced from $6.00 to $12.00.

And those original imported LODEN COATS for only $33.00. What great styling, and lots of small sizes too.

And FASHION TOWN, 9W NORTH, KINGSTON (next to The House of Pancakes), has so many PANT SUITS and PANT SETS. I love them all so please pick out the ones you like best for me.

See you soon.

Benedictine Schedules Parties for Employees

KINGSTON Miss Mary L. Keating RN, in-service coordinator at Benedictine Hospital, has been named chairman of the hospital's annual Christmas party for more than 700 employees.

The event is to be held Tuesday, Dec. 22, from 3 to 6 p.m. in the Benedictine Hospital Senior Citizen Residence Auditorium and again from 10:30 to 11:30 p.m. for employees on the night shift.

Miss Keating, who is a past president of the New York State Nurses Association, has as her co-chairman, Emily Hank, of the Nursing Department. Gifts will be presented all 700 employees and 25 large gifts will be awarded during the party at which Miss Keating will serve as mistress of ceremonies.

Sister, Mary Charles, Benedictine administrator, will welcome those attending the gathering, as will the Rt. Rev. Msgr. Charles Biggood, chaplain.

Ed Kirschner, well-known local musician, will entertain with his accordion at the afternoon party and Al Wolven and Robert Miller will perform at the late party.

William Helmer of the Nursing Department will portray Santa Claus and Helen Rodell will depict Mrs. Santa Claus. Senior citizens residing in the Benedictine Residence also will attend.

Chairman of various committees and their committeemen are as follows: Invitations, Rebecca Bight, chairman; Decorations, Juanita Mann, chairman; Greta Mazzotta, Evelyn Giordano, Coordinator for Senior Citizens; Kaethe DeBus, chairman, Set-up and Clean-up; Irene McDougal, chairman, Food; William Hammond, Entertainment; Cheryl Kittle, Finances; Joan Stawicki, Transportation; Walter Kaufmann, Gifts and wrapping; Evelyn Johnson, chairman; Beatrice Markle and Beatrice Stale, Steering Committee; Wilhelmina Wesdorp, chairman.

Heart Health

KINGSTON Your heart is the sturdiest, toughest muscle of your body. In the epidemic of heart disease, thousands of hearts are still which are actually too good, too sound, to die prematurely. The basic cause is interference with the heart's own supply lines or arteries from atherosclerosis, a kind of biological rust.

After a half a century and more of brilliant medical detective work, it has been found that atherosclerosis really is due to a number of causes. And here they are: High blood pressure, high levels of cholesterol, overweight, excessive eating, too little exercise and physical activity, diabetes, excessive cigarette smoking, tensions and stresses and heredity.

If you are beset by any one of them, your risk of a premature heart attack is boosted two to six times above the risk of the person free from such a burden. With a combination of factors, your risk is far higher.

A man's chances of having a heart attack before age 65 are only about 1 in 20 to 1 in 50 if he has normal weight, normal blood pressure, average or low levels of blood cholesterol, no diabetes, is not a heavy cigarette smoker, is moderately active, has a normal electrocardiogram and has no damage to his kidneys or thyroid gland.

For the interesting, free booklet, "Your Heart Has Nine Lives," write or phone the Mid-Hudson Heart Association, 72 Main Street, Kingston, N.Y. 12401.

Storms Elected President Of County Health Board

KINGSTON — Benjamin A. Storms, a member of the Kingston Housing Authority, being elected president of the Ulster County Board of Health at its recent annual meeting.

Storms, who was the Supervisor of Kingston's second ward from 1958 through 1963, represented the Ulster County Board of Supervisors on the Board of Health during that period. In November 1964 he was appointed as a regular member of the Board of Health and has spent four terms as Vice-President. He is an official of Hercules, Inc.

Storms succeeds Dr. Virgil B. DeWitt of New Paltz, who served the board as its president with distinction since 1960.

A lifelong resident of Kingston, Storms also has served as named to that body in 1963 by former Mayor John J. Schwenk. He is a veteran of World War 2, serving as a combat engineer and winning a battlefield commission in Europe.

Storms is married to the former Barbara Wetherbee and they have a daughter, Karen.

Dr. Alfred M. Feldshuh of Kerhonkson, was unanimously elected vice-president for the ensuing year. He was appointed to the Board of Health in January 1968 for a six year term.

The other members of the board are Dr. DeWitt, Dr. Glenn D. VanGaasbeek of Kingston, Gerard DeFelice of Rosendale, Peter J. Savago of New Paltz, Joseph E. O'Connor of Lake Katrine and John P. Hall of Stone Ridge.

Return Silvia To Own State

By WALTER S. CLARK

CATSKILL — A 21-year-old Rhode Island man accused of participating in the murder of a prominent doctor appeared Wednesday in Columbia County Court in Hudson and waived extradition and was returned to Providence for arraignment.

James R. Silvia of Warwick, R. I., and his companion, 19-year-old Nancy Snow of Norwich, Conn., were taken into custody late Tuesday night by Troopers J. J. Hayes and J. J. Syvertsen of the Leeds state police, after they were stopped on Route 23 in East Windham.

The girl was held in the Greene County Jail in lieu of $10,000 bail accused of possessing a loaded .38 caliber revolver, which was found in the car driven by Silvia.

Silvia, an escaped convict, also is wanted for an armed robbery in Connecticut. Authorities said Silvia had escaped in November from the adult correctional institution in Howard, R. I., where he had been confined following an armed robbery and a shootout with police in Cranston, R. I.

A charge of illegal possession of a firearm is pending against Silvia in Greene County, troopers said.

Silvia and 18-year-old Michael S. Marchetti of Providence, are accused of the murder of Dr. Charles B. Potter, 62, of Fosdyke Street, Providence, on the morning of Dec. 10. Marchetti was taken into custody on Monday after police traced him to an apartment in Boston, Mass.

Silvia and three other men, including Marchetti's brother, Charles, were taken into custody in October following a shootout with police in Cranston, R. I., during an attempted holdup of a grocery store. Silvia later escaped from the Rhode Island correctional institution.

Meet the men who preserve the past and provide for the future.

They're trustees of Kingston Savings Bank.

Their job? To act in the interest of KSB's depositors. And they do their job well.

They've seen to it that KSB depositors earn the highest returns on their savings allowed by law. And, at the same time, they've made wise investments—here, in our community.

They are men dedicated to preserving the past and providing for the future.

Of course, they're more than trustees. They're businessmen, professional men. Leaders in their community. And we'd like you to know more about them.

So, in the weeks and months ahead, we'll introduce you to them, one at a time.

We think, the more you know about your trustees, the more you're going to like Kingston Savings Bank.

'Full Employment' Definitions Many and Varied

WASHINGTON (AP) — The term "full employment" is in vogue with today's economic seers and policymakers. But the magic words don't always mean what they seem to say.

For example, an avowed goal of President Nixon's economic policy is full employment by mid-1972. Yet some of his advisers admit they'd be reasonably happy if, by that time, there were as many as 3.5 million men and women still looking for jobs.

And the President wants to balance the "full employment budget" for fiscal 1972, starting next July 1. He may do that, but he could still have a real, financial deficit of $10 or $12 billion.

What does full employment mean, then?

In customary Washington usage nowadays, it means getting unemployment down to about 4 per cent of the labor force.

That would still leave at least 3.3 million people jobless.

Paul W. McCracken, chairman of the President's Council of Economic Advisers told questioners he thinks of 4 per cent as "the midpoint of a full employment zone." Other officials acknowledge that anything up to 4.5 per cent—and maybe a little more—would be a "reasonable goal for mid-1972."

And that would represent a solid gain, because many expect the rate to climb above 6 per cent in 1971 before it starts down. Few think it will get as low as 5 per cent any time next year.

The term full employment became embedded in the language during the Great Depression of the 1930s, when it was a pie-in-the-sky target of the Roosevelt New Deal.

The definition was vague, but it was achieved in World War II. Over-achieved, in fact, because the wartime labor shortage was an acute as the tire or meat shortage.

In many respects the country's war production effort was limited by lack of labor. Even so, there was still 1.2 per cent unemployment in 1944, the year of peak homefront effort.

This was less than what the experts call normal "frictional" unemployment. Frictional unemployment represents newcomers to the labor force who haven't yet found work, workers who quit to hunt another job, some who were laid off but hope to be called back; others who are idle because of weather, or who are waiting for a call to work from a cannery, lumber mill or other seasonal or sporadic employer.

A quarter-century ago it was generally assumed that the frictionally unemployed—plus those who couldn't get work because of illiteracy, instability or other handicaps—would add up to 2 or 2½ per cent of the labor force.

After the war, industry raced to satisfy the pent-up civilian demand released after years of rationing and austerity. The millions of war plant workers and demobilized servicemen were hired swiftly. The dreaded postwar depression never came. But neither did full employment. The 2.5 per cent rate was achieved in only one postwar year, 1953, and that was the result of an economy overheated by the Korean War.

That year also saw the start of a recession which boosted unemployment in 1954 to an average 5 per cent. It was the first of three recessions which plagued the administration of Dwight D. Eisenhower—each longer than the last and each leaving the unemployment rate at a higher level when recovery came.

The last of these slumps undoubtedly helped to defeat Eisenhower's vice president, Richard M. Nixon, when he ran for president in 1960.

When John F. Kennedy took office, with unemployment around 6.8 per cent, he readjusted the "full employment" goal, headed by Walter W. Heller, looked for a goal that might be realistic. They came up with 4 per cent, as what they called an "interim objective."

That goal finally was reached; unemployment ranged from 3.6 to 3.8 per cent in each of the last three years of the Johnson administration. This was the climax of a nine-year boom that was fueled by the biggest tax cut in history and, later on, by the Vietnam war, the biggest federal deficit since World War II, and a serious inflation.

The Nixon administration undertook to slow the inflation gently, to avoid painful unemployment. This feat did not come off. The policy of "gradualism," a steady application of moderate fiscal-monetary restraints, has produced only inconclusive results in moderating the inflation, while unemployment has risen every month for the past year.

The unemployment rate, which averaged 3.5 per cent in 1969, reached 5.8 per cent in November, partly because of the General Motors strike. About 4.6 million Americans needed work.

To restore "full employment" by the middle of 1972 would require giant strides in production for the next 18 months—gains of up to 8 per cent in real output in some quarters.

To help generate this growth, Nixon is accepting two big deficits without quibble—an estimated $15 billion this year, perhaps $10 or $12 billion in the budget now being drafted for fiscal 1972.

But he is insisting, so far, on balancing the "full employment budget." This is not an actual spending plan but an economic concept. It is the level of federal outlays which equals the amount of revenue that would be generated if the economy were running at a full employment rate—that is, with only about 4 per cent joblessness.

So Nixon could balance the "full employment budget" in fiscal 1972 if his real expenditures plus his real deficit did not exceed the estimated revenue that he would be collecting if the economy were running at full steam.

Temple Emanuel

The annual Jewish Art Family Sabbath Service will be held Friday at Temple Emanuel, 243 Albany Avenue. Services begin at 7:30 p.m. and the public may attend. Kurt Matzdorf, internationally-known silversmith artist will present a slide-lecture on Jewish Ceremonial Art. The shofar from the Stravinsky collection given to the Temple in memory of Rabbi Herbert I. Bloom will be dedicated by Robert Craft. Paintings and a marriage huppah recently purchased by the Temple will be on display.

During the services, the memories of the following will be invoked: Sol Appel, Harry Goldsmith, Samuel Serrin, Julia Paige, Bella Kletske, Annie C. Hymes.

Following the evening's program, an Oneg Shabbat will be sponsored by the Temple Sisterhood.

A Religious School of Chanukah party for children in Grades Kindergarten through third will be held Saturday morning at the Temple. Children not old enough to attend Religious School are welcome to attend. Forty-five students from Grades 4-10 are going to see Fiddler on the Roof on Sunday as a special Chanukah treat.

The Brotherhood and B'nai B'rith Men will hold a joint Bagels and Lox Brunch Sunday, 10 a.m.

Henry Gould will speak on Jewish Chautauque: What Is It? and a film, entitled: Beyond the Mirage dealing with myths about Israel, will be shown. All interested persons may attend.

The Basic Judaism Class will meet Monday, 8 p.m. This introduction to Judaism course is open to all.

Agudas Achim

Shabbat services at Congregation Agudas Achim, 254 Lucas Avenue, will be conducted as follows: Mincha and Kabbalat Shabbat at 4:15 p.m. Shabbat services at 8:30 a.m. and 4:15 p.m. Rabbi Howard Gershon and Cantor Herman Slomovits will officiate. Light Shabbat candles at 4:10 p.m. Daily services at 7:00 a.m. and 7:00 p.m. Light first Chanukah candle Tuesday evening, Dec. 22.

Anyone wishing to join Congregation Agudas Achim may contact either Mrs. Robert Selinger, Jack Sheinvold or Rabbi Gershon.

Sunday, from 2 to 4 p.m., Agudas Achim will hold its annual Chanukah program at the new synagogue building. NCSY will sponsor a Chanukah book, toy and game sale. Rabbi Howard Gershon will discuss the meaning of the miracle of Chanukah and Cantor Herman Slomovits will chant the blessings over the candles.

Entertainment and refreshments will be provided by the Sisterhood of Agudas Achim. Everyone may attend.

Ahavath Israel

At Congregation Ahavath Israel, a Conservative Synagogue, at 100 Lucas Avenue, a special evening service will be held this Friday to introduce the Festival of Chanukah which will begin on Tuesday evening, Dec. 22. The Friday evening services will be conducted in their entirety by the children of the Talmud Torah. More than 25 children will take part in the reading and chanting of the services and the sermon will be delivered by one of the boys, Eric Werbalowsky.

A change in the schedule of the services will also be made, as these services will begin at 7:30 p.m., instead of the usual hour of 8 p.m. A Chanukah party will be given for the children by the Sisterhood at the Oneg Shabbat after the services.

The Mourner's Prayer will be offered for the following whose yahrzeit will be observed in the coming week: Richard Adin, Miriam Goldstein, Joseph Kobran, Mrs. Jacob Lober, George Schwartz, Elsie Szura and Joe Wasserlauf.

Religious services will also be held on Saturday, 9:30 a.m.

The Talmud Torah will have sessions this week Sunday, Monday and Tuesday. A Chanukah Party and assembly will be held on Tuesday during school hours. The winter vacation will begin for the Talmud Torah after the Tuesday session.

Hageny Book Published

NEW PALTZ encourage the principle of local control of education through properly informed board members.

A newly revised edition of the "Education Law Handbook for School Boards," written by Dr. William J. Hageny, professor of education at the State University at New Paltz, has recently been published by the State School Board's Association.

The handbook, a comprehensive digest of education laws most frequently encountered by school officials, has been revised many times since the first edition was published in 1945.

According to Dr. Hageny, who is also a member of the Board of Trustees at Ulster County Community College, the chief purpose of the handbook is "to encourage the principle of local control of education through properly informed board members."

The handbook is written in digest form and layman's language to better guide the reader through the maze of technical educational statutes and decisions.

The new edition covers the Taylor Law, problems of church and state in the schools, the new law on suspension or expulsion of pupils, recent decisions on the flag salute and many other controversial subjects.

Dr. Hageny, a former superintendent of the Haldane Central School District in Cold Springs, is executive secretary of the Mid-Hudson School Study Council with headquarters at the college in New Paltz.

Yule Guests for Dinner At Benedictine Hospital

KINGSTON How would you like a Christmas dinner for you and your guest with a choice of turkey, rock lobster tail or broiled sirloin? . . . plus all the accoutrements? That is exactly what patients of Benedictine Hospital have to look forward to at Christmas noon, according to William J. Hammond, food service director.

On the holiday menu are the following: celery, mixed olives, radishes, shrimp cocktail or fresh fruit supreme. Also a cup of mushroom soup with crackers and a choice of roast young turkey with giblet gravy, savory dressing, cranberry sauce or African Rock Lobster Tail. Also broiled sirloin with mushroom caps, buttered broccoli, whole baby carrots, corn on the cob and mixed green or waxed beans.

In addition, there will be candied sweet potatoes, whipped potatoes, dinner rolls, pumpkin or banana cream pie, fruited jello or ice cream and coffee, tea and milk. There will also be a choice of chilled apple cider, mixed nut meats and chilled wine, Sauterne or Rose.

Hammond stressed that patients, who wish, may have guests join them in their holiday dinner.

Groups of carolers are also expected to sing throughout the hospital during holiday time.

Mrs. Nixon Shopping For Christmas Gifts

By HELEN THOMAS
WASHINGTON (UPI) — Pat Nixon recently made one of her infrequent shopping tours around Washington, searching out Christmas gifts for the family.

On a stop at one fashionable specialty shop, she looked in vain for a bed jacket trimmed in maribou feathers — the height of femininity.

She made the rounds with a close friend, Mrs. Roger Johnson, whose husband is an assistant to President Nixon.

Christmas is a family time for the Nixons. It's their tradition to open their gifts on Christmas morning. Each member of the family and their dogs have red knit stockings that will be hanging from the mantel.

The President and Mrs. Nixon have invited former First Lady Mamie Eisenhower to join them for Christmas dinner, set for 1 p.m. EST to give the household staff a chance to serve and depart early for their own family celebrations.

The First Lady plans a traditional menu-fruit cup, roast turkey with celery dressing, giblet gravy, acorn squash, mashed potatoes, blueberry muffins and mince-meat pie.

The President's son-in-law, David Eisenhower, 22, will be home for Christmas — his first vacation since he entered Naval Officers Training, R.I. this fall. That will make Julie Nixon Eisenhower's Christmas happy.

The Nixons' elder daughter, Tricia, 24, also will have her beau, Ed Cox, a Harvard law student, at the White House during the holidays.

Tie-Dye a Masterpiece; One - of - a - Kind - Gift

By AILEEN SNODDY
Tie-dyeing is an old art form that fits perfectly the experimental mood of the young. And it's a favorite of oldies who like to create something new and different to look at or wear with little time or effort.

Those stumped for an inexpensive gift idea have a solution. Make a framed print using the tie-dye technique. It will require a plain color Irish linen handkerchief, some all-purpose dye, string or rubber bands and an inexpensive wood frame or white mat from the local five-and-dime store.

Irish linen is recommended because it is highly absorbent and takes color well. However, other fabrics may be used.

For a very personal holiday gift, start by preparing the dye according to directions. Then fold or crumple the handkerchief into a long strip keeping the "right" side of the fabric on the outside when gathering. Now fasten the material at intervals or at random with several thicknesses of tightly wound string or rubber bands. Immerse handkerchief in the hot dye solution for 10 minutes and then rinse thoroughly. Hang on line to dry. Cover with a clean cloth and paper and press with a hot iron.

Since the basic tie-dye process results in varying new effects, the design possibilities are limitless. For multicolor effects, repeat the basic method two or three times, varying colors in each case. To achieve a shadowy effect, tie small objects like buttons, into the fabrics to see what happens.

Attach the tie-dye masterpiece to a cardboard and frame. For variation, paint the frame to match one of the colors in the handkerchief.

Each print is an original and makes a thoughtful gift for a man or a woman.

Wall arrangement of framed, tie-dyed prints show variety of homemade art for perfect Christmas gifts.

Vasilopita Dinner

The annual Christmas party sponsored by the Club for all children of the parish was held December 13 at the church hall. Refreshments and gifts were presented to the children who were visited by Santa Claus. Games were played and a movie shown. Arrangements for the party were made by Mrs. Evy Konjas and Mrs. Magdalene Koskoletos.

A report on the successful bazaar held in November was given by Mrs. Artemis Bliziotis. They candy sale is in progress, with Mrs. Panayiota Larios and Mrs. Ero Kouvarides in charge.

Children's Party

The Good Neighbor Social Club will sponsor a Christmas party for all children of the area on Sunday, Dec. 20 at 2 p.m. at St. Liberata Hall, East Kingston.

Santa will arrive at 3 p.m. with gifts for all. Free refreshments will be served and music for dancing will be provided. Parents are welcome.

Decoration Contest

The second annual holiday decorations contest sponsored by Hillside Acres Garden Club will take place Saturday, Dec. 19.

All residents of Hillside Acres are invited to participate. Awards will be presented in four categories: front door, garage door, lamp post and mail box.

Judges will be Mrs. Katherine Johansen, Edgar Elliot, Mrs. Dexter Arnold. They will start their tour through the area at 4 p.m.

In keeping with the holiday season of Christmas and Hanukkah, awards will be donated by Mr. and Mrs. William Zang, builder and developer of Hillside Acres.

KITCHEN CARPET

Have you always dreamed of a way to eliminate the scrubbing and waxing of your kitchen floor? If so, your dreams may come true by the installation of kitchen carpets, says Phyllis W. Barlow, Extension Home Economist.

Carpeting in the kitchen is a matter of personal choice, depending upon the amount and type of use and the willingness to give it a little daily care. It is not completely maintenance-free. Spots and spilled substances should be removed immediately and the carpet should be vacuumed often. It should be thoroughly washed with warm water and detergent frequently.

There are many advantages of a carpeted kitchen. A carpet is more foot comforting, requires less scrubbing and no waxing, absorbs much kitchen noise, lessens the danger of breakage, and is warmer. It may be more luxurious in appearance. Installation may be made over a floor in rather poor condition.

Good quality kitchen carpeting has some special requirements:

—The face pile should be a non-absorbent fiber that is easy to clean, such as nylon, acrylic or polypropylene olefin.

—The face pile should be a non-absorbent fiber that will not soak up moisture or stains.

—It should have a short, very dense pile that will hold crumbs and spilled substances on top of the surface for easy cleaning.

—For practical purposes (many children in the family), choose a multi-color or tweed.

Some carpets have a layer of woven or solid plastic between the face fiber and the backing. This acts as another precaution against moisture getting through. The more precautions against the absorption of moisture the more satisfactory the carpet should be. Most kitchen carpets have a high density foam backing. This is moisture-resistant and will not mildew or rot. No other padding is required.

Test the carpet samples for absorbency by pouring a little water on each one. The water should form a "bead" on the surface and be easy to wipe up. The olefin permit moisture to flow through to the backing more quickly than other synthetics, but it may be blotted up easily.

The choice between carpet, carpet tiles or resilient flooring for the kitchen is largely a personal one. Each has its advantages and disadvantages and the decision should rest on individual preferences and work habits.

Whatever your decision you might have a new kitchen floor for Christmas if Santa is approached properly.

Short Shorts Back For Spring 1971

NEW YORK (AP) — The sweater sets, short shorts and pedal pushers of the 1950s made a comeback for spring in the international collection of Halston, the man who designed Jacqueline Kennedy's famous pillbox hats and then became a smashing success in the ready to wear market.

Halston opened his show Tuesday with a flowing red wool collared mid length cape over short shorts. Then, with the exception of a few wrap dresses, he showed an almost entirely separate look of wrap skirts, knickers, mid-length vests, pants and shorts. Some pants were cut off around the knee, much like the old pedal pushers or clam diggers, and pants which weren't cut off frequently were worn inside boots.

"Almost anything more than a sweater and skirt looks square," said the designer's assistant and commentator, Ed Austin.

The Halston international clothes, which retail up to $200, hardly looked square.

A standout was emerald green short shorts with matching wrap blouse worn with knee length boots. A stretch terry blue cloth cardigan and crew neck sweater were worn with matching shorts and there were also V-necked sweaters.

Hints From Heloise

Dear Heloise:
When housecleaning time comes around and things are being spruced up a bit with adhesive-backed paper, tell folks not to throw away that beautiful glazed part that comes stuck on the underneath side.

It makes fabulous shelf lining!
Try it, gals.

Irene Jordan

Yep, sure it does. And it can be wiped clean in a jiffy with a damp cloth.

I used the glazed side UP for my shelves, turning the printed side down.

Heloise

Dear Heloise:

Not so pleasant to talk about, but still a necessity, are toilet bowl brushes. I store mine under the bath room sink in one of those plastic bags that we find on the doorknob with the local supermarket "flyers."

The bags are just the right size and hang on a hook I've placed just for that purpose in the cabinet under our bathroom sink.

No more drip to contend with... and there's a fresh bag every week!

Evelyn Powers

Dear Heloise:

My wife bought an expensive pair of boots with beautiful leather tops, but the soles were made of composition rubber. Came the first icy weather and she found the soles had about as much grip as a wax candle. She is agile, but from the car to the office she executed some steps never seen in a dance routine!

Trying to roughen the soles up with sandpaper didn't work, so here's the idea I came up with.

I bought a tube of heavy rubber cement. Then I sifted some dry sand through a piece of old window screen a tea strainer or flour sifter would do).

Next, I cleaned the boot soles with lighter fluid and when they were dry, applied a heavy coat of rubber cement. After a few moments, when good and gooey, I applied a heavy coat of sand, patting it down with my hand. I did not try to remove the surplus; and I let the boots stand overnight.

The next morning I brushed hard with an old whisk broom. There was a nice, even coat of sand remaining and it did not loosen or track on the floors. She was as sure footed, after that, as a mountain goat!

Diane Sheehan Weds Vincent J. Ferraro

Miss Diane Sheehan, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Daniel Sheehan of Saugerties, became the bride of Vincent J. Ferraro, son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Ferraro of MacDonal Street, Saugerties, on Saturday, Dec. 5 at St. Mary of the Snow Church, Saugerties.

The Rev. John F. Hamilton officiated at the double ring ceremony and celebrated the nuptial Mass. Mrs. Charles Dickman, organist, accompanied Jack Keeley who sang traditional wedding selections. Vases of white carnations and white gladioli decorated the altar.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride selected an empire A-line gown of peau de soie, styled with a built-in chapel train. Venice lace shaped her high collar and formed a shirtwaist effect. She wore a tulle petal cap with four tiers of French illusion veiling and carried a bouquet of baby pink roses.

Carol O'Connor of High Woods served as honor attendant in an empire A-line carried a muff accented with holly.

Attendants were Jacqueline Bellini, cousin of the bride, Brooklyn; Gail Hudak, and Nancy Napoleon, Kingston. Their gowns were similar in styling to that of the honor attendant's except with red velvet boleros. They also carried muffs accented with holly.

Kathy Peter, cousin of the bride, was flower girl in a gown styled identically to that of the honor attendant's. She carried a muff trimmed with holly.

Joseph Amato of Glasco was best man. Ushers were Dennis Sheehan, brother of the bride; Saugerties; Nicky Bonelli, Glasco; Frank Petramale of Glasco. Steven Amato served as ringbearer.

A reception for 130 guests was held at Cementon Sportsmen's Club.

For her wedding trip to New York City, the bride selected a white knit pants suit.

The bride attended Saugerties High School and is employed in the Evaluation Department of Metropolitan Life Insurance Company. Her husband and also attended Saugerties High School and is employed by Statewide Carpentry in Glasco.

Mr. and Mrs. Ferraro will reside at Route 2, Box 272 A, West Saugerties.

Kelson - Metoyer Nuptials Told

Mrs. Florence Kelson of 222 East Union Street, Kingston, became the bride of Ernest Metoyer of Kingston on Saturday, Dec. 5 at Franklin Street A.M.E. Zion Church.

The Rev. Edward Morton, pastor, officiated, assisted by the Rev. Petty M. McKinney of A.M.E. Zion Church of Poughkeepsie.

The bride was given in marriage by her son, Albert Kelson of Jamaica, L.I. Attendants were Mrs. Felicia Ash of Yonkers and Darty Burgandy of Kingston.

The bridegroom is employed by Kingston Hospital.

Philharmonic 'House Music' Benefits

Claude Montoux, music director of the Hudson Valley Philharmonic has announced that "this year's goal for the orchestra's Sustaining Fund Drive is $90,000. Last year house music concerts were responsible for a large percentage of the money which was raised for the drive. We hope to have the same success with them this year."

The term "house music" refers to benefit concerts for the orchestra for which hostesses open their homes. The musicians donate their services, and the hostesses provide refreshments.

Usually, a minimum donation of $5 is requested.

This year, there are three different groups which will be available for the house music concerts. Marianne Montoux, Claude Montoux and Leon Sayetz comprise a chamber music ensemble; Luis Garcia-Renart will perform with cello and guitar; and Sylvia Suzowsky will play the harpsichord.

Mrs. David Stevenson and Mrs. Armen Fisher are the heads of the house music committee.

Coretta King Contemplates Her Past and Her Future

By NAOMI ROCK
AP Newsfeature Writer
NEW YORK (AP) — "It wasn't what I had envisioned for my life, but Martin's work was so important I didn't want to be in conflict. "For the sake of the cause I was willing to be a supporter, to do whatever was necessary even if it meant sublimating some of my own desires. But there were times Coretta King stopped abruptly and shut her eyes. She leaned back in an easy chair in her hotel suite and talked of some of the things she had written in her book, "My Life With Martin Luther King Jr."

She was born and raised in rural Alabama, at a time when Negroes were discriminated against as a matter of course, she trudged three miles each way to a shabby one-room schoolhouse while the white children rode buses.

She bought an ice cream cone at the corner drugstore by entering through a side door, waiting until the whites were served and then taking whatever flavor the man was pushing. Her father was burned out of business when he became "too uppity." But at home she was taught tolerance and the need for learning.

"You get an education and try to be somebody," commanded her mother, who hadn't gotten past fourth grade. "Then you won't have to be kicked around by anybody, and you won't have to depend on anybody for your livelihood — not even on a man."

She studied music and elementary education, but the local school board refused to let her practice teaching because the faculty had not been integrated. She wanted to fight the board, but Antioch's president refused to back her.

She was determined to develop her talents as a concert pianist and to work for the betterment of the Negro's lot. Less than a year later, however, she met a fervent Baptist minister, and in another 18 months became Mrs. Martin Luther King Jr.

Like so many women, educated and ready to take on the world, she made a choice — one, she believes, that was at least partly dictated by fate. She channeled her energies toward husband and children — but not without regrets. For she, Coretta Scott, who had been active in civil rights before she met her husband, might have done something tangible for the movement.

She voices her misgivings openly, matter-of-factly, not bitterly, but with longing.

But the years passed and Coretta Scott King remained virtually anonymous. Ironically it took assassination and the image of the strong, dignified widow in black dress and veil to make an impression on the world's consciousness.

Today on the threshold of her 40s Mrs. King continues her husband's work through lectures, and membership in various civil rights organizations, particularly the Southern Christian Leadership Conference which her husband helped found. She is also working for a national committee dedicated to getting blacks elected to public office.

Concerning women's liberation, she believes that it has great potential, but is currently bogged down in too many irrelevancies.

"It's ridiculous to fight men because they've made us homemakers. We've chosen our roles. If women want to fight they should fight economic inequities, discrimination and poverty. They should struggle for peace."

About herself, Mrs. King said, she believes she is moving toward involvement in a broader civil rights movement, a movement in which the rights and capabilities of women will play a major part.

"I MADE IT JUST FOR YOU" are sweet words at Christmas time from one friend or relative to another. There is money-saving gift sense in making Candied Orange Rind and Orange-Cranberry Bread with fresh oranges and cranberries from your market.

Homemade Gift Treats Stretch Christmas Money

Orange-Cranberry Bread

If you want to save money on Christmas gifts, round up some Citrus Sinensis of the family Retaceae, and some little ruby members of the heath family (Ericaceae). In other words — buy some delicious fresh oranges and sparkling red cranberries!

With these Christmasy, seasonal fruits you can make delightful gifts of festive food that will say "Merry Christmas" in a very personal way and be easier on your gift budget than most bought presents.

In a gourmet specialty shop, Candied Orange Peel is a regal gift item at a matching price. But with our easy directions, you can make it at home and have luscious treat with a crisp, tender texture to put in a pretty jar, all at budget cost. In fact, you are really getting a bonus from the oranges you buy, since the peel is usually discarded.

Our second suggestion is a delicious homemade Orange-Cranberry Bread. This loaf has a fruity, moist texture owing to the fresh orange juice, slivered rind, and chopped fresh cranberries that make it so special. So unlike a bought product. For the ultimate gift dress-up, drizzle a shiny white glaze over the loaf and garnish it with orange slices cut in triangles and a Christmas-colored topknot of whole cranberries.

Of course, you'll be using zesty fresh cranberries in the traditional relish for your holiday table, but enjoy them, too, in baked specialties such as Orange-Cranberry Bread, and muffins.

Don't forget when planning your Christmas decorations that fresh fruits are charming symbols of the season. A very simple arrangement of pine boughs on a tray can form the base for a fresh fruit arrangement with oranges, apples, grapes, kumquats, and other colorful fruits. Guests and family can help themselves to the fruits which are placed easily in such a casual arrangement. Fresh fruits are high in vitamins so they are especially important to eat in a season of rich, robust meals.

One cup sugar
One-fourth cup water
One half cup slivered orange rind*
One-fourth cup butter or margarine
One cup fresh orange juice
Two eggs, slightly beaten
Two and one-half cups sifted all-purpose flour
Three teaspoons baking powder
One-half teaspoon baking soda
One teaspoon salt
One-half cup wheat germ or finely chopped nuts
One cup coarsely chopped fresh cranberries

Combine sugar and water in saucepan. Add orange rind and cook, stirring occasionally, until sugar dissolves. Cook over low heat an additional 5 minutes, continuing to stir. Remove from heat; add butter and stir until melted. Cool slightly. Add orange juice and egg; blend well. Sift together flour, baking powder, soda and salt. Stir in wheat germ or nuts. Add to liquid, mixing only until moistened. Stir in greased and waxed paper lined 9 x 5 x 3-inch loaf pan. Let stand 2 minutes. Bake in 350 degrees F. oven 1 hour and 5 to 10 minutes, until cake tester inserted in center comes out clean. Cool 10 minutes; remove from pan and cool completely. Cover top with White Glaze if desired, garnish with quartered orange slice and whole cranberries.
Makes 1 loaf.

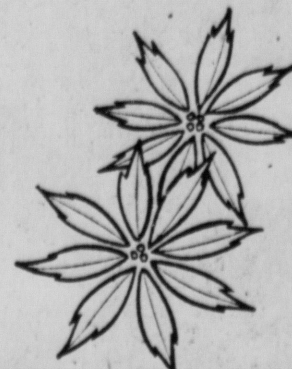

*To prepare slivered orange rind, cut strips of rind from 4 or 5 oranges with vegetable peeler, then cut rind with scissors or knife into fine slivers.

White Glaze: Stir one and one-half tablespoons milk into one cup confectioners' sugar; blend until smooth.

12 oranges
One quart water
One cup sugar
One cup honey

Remove outer rind from oranges with vegetable peeler, cutting it off in pieces as large as possible. Place in saucepan with water and simmer, covered, for 4 minutes. Drain, reserving one cup cooking liquid. Cut into one-half inch squares. Combine reserved one cup cooking liquid, sugar and honey; stir over low heat until sugar dissolves. Add rind and cook over moderately low heat 30 minutes. Drain, reserving syrup. Roll rind in additional granulated sugar; place on cake rack or waxed paper and let dry for 24 hours. Store in tightly covered container. Use reserved syrup as a spread on toast, biscuits, pancakes and waffles.

Make about three cups.

Doing the Right Thing

By ELIZABETH L. POST

I'M OFTEN ASKED what effect Women's Lib will have on manners. Here's one man's answer:

DEAR MRS. POST: I think it is too bad that a woman can't open her car door without waiting for her husband to run around and open it for her. The women want equal rights, so let her open the car door herself.

I used to hold doors open for women, but no more — that is out! They don't say, thank you, kiss my foot, or anything. No more giving up seats on buses, no more standing back and letting the women board first, and so on. The days of chivalry are gone, finished. The woman killed it dead. 'Tis sad but so true.

JACK

DEAR MRS. POST: I have done office work for over 20 years. On my previous jobs we always gave the boss a Christmas present. We have never done this at the company I work for now because some of the girls term it "brown-nosing." Would you please advise which theory is correct?

DONNA

DEAR DONNA. Employees are not obligated to give their boss a present, either singly or jointly. In some companies they do so because of a real affection for their employer, but it should only be done when that exists, and not if it's only "brown-nosing." (I am assuming that "brown-nosing" is equivalent to the term "apple-polishing.")

DEAR MRS. POST: When there's a boy you like, is it proper for the girl to say "hello" first or should the boy say it first?

TERRI

DEAR TERRI: Try a nice smile when you see him. If that doesn't get a "hello" from him, say it yourself. But if he doesn't answer you with any enthusiasm, or say "Hi" the next time he sees you, forget it — he's not interested.

Dear Mrs. Post: I would like to know whether it is proper and-or permissible for a lady to wear a hat and-or gloves while singing a solo at a funeral which is held in church or in a funeral home. — Elsie Bower

Dear Mrs. Bower: Although it is no longer considered essential to wear a hat in church, it still is especially appropriate at a funeral. Those closely connected with the deceased, or taking part in the service as a vocalist, should wear a hat or head covering of some kind.

Gloves, too, are in good taste. But they are less important than the hat, and it is really up to you whether you wear them throughout the service or not.

Coleman Plays David to Kingston's Goliath

By MORT LAFFIN

KINGSTON The story of David and Goliath, as told on the pages in the Old Testament of the Bible (First Samuel, chapter 17, verse 50—to be exact), is probably one of the most familiar of the biblical tales. It is the classic story of the supposed weak, under-sized, underdog rising to the occasion. And, as in the case of David and the Giant, winning against all odds.

Like it or not, the David and Goliath theme that has permeated sports writing for decades, will unfold on the local scene Friday night when the Statesmen of John A. Coleman High take on a bigger, stronger, resurgent Kingston High School basketball squad at the Hurley Avenue Extension gymnasium.

Of course, the odds are quite good that David isn't going to slay Goliath; or even come close.

Rienzo Optimistic

However, Kingston Coach Mike Rienzo is being cautiously optimistic about his team's chances in this tilt. And, rightfully so. Coleman has a reputation for "getting up for the big ones," especially when playing before the home crowd.

"This is the first time that the two schools have ever faced each other in basketball," said Rienzo. "So, you never know what to expect."

"Our team has looked good on occasion," stated the Kingston coach. "We are 3-1 and they are 2-2. But, you can throw past performances out the window in a game like this. They (Coleman) can be very tough. The zone press is very effective, especially on their home court. It will be a good, hard ballgame and we aren't taking them too lightly at all," he concluded.

DuBois realizes his team's shortcomings. And, the biggest problem the Statesmen have is the fact that they are short; not as tall man-for-man as the Fighting Maroon invaders.

"We lack size," said DuBois. "And, because of that, we get into foul trouble early trying for position on the boards. I feel that my team stands a good outside chance of winning. We'll be sky-high for this one. We have nothing to lose and everything to gain. The pressure is on Kingston. They are a well-coached club, though. And, we're going to need better than 100 per cent from everyone on the team if we are to win," stated DuBois.

Hastings Stars

Leading the potential giant-killers will be Don Hastings. Hastings must be cast in the singular role of "David" because if he doesn't score, the Statesmen will be in for a long night. "Dandy Don" is the only Coleman scorer averaging double figures. He is hitting at 24 points per game. Hastings had been averaging about 28 points-per-tilt. But, a tough Highland defense held him to 11 markers in his last outing.

Joining Hastings will be Steve Peruso, John Machione, John Geuss and either Mark Weber or Bill Krajci. Geuss has been a rebounder par excellence for Coleman. But, he will really need his jumping shoes against the taller KHS quintet.

As a team, Coleman has averaged 56.5 points-per-game, scoring 226 markers for four tilts. On the other hand, they have given up 224 points for a 56 point average.

Look for Coleman to make good use of their famed zone press, trying to force Kingston into game-breaking turnovers.

As Wilt Chamberlain, National Basketball Association star for many years, and one of the tallest men in the game at 7-1 1/2, once stated: "Nobody loves Goliath."

However, it is not the intention of this article to place Kingston in the unloved position as the big baddies from the east side of town.

But, the Fighting Maroons have greatly improved over last season. And, based on their 3-1 record thus far, the Maroons have to be rated as one of the better quintets in the area; Newburgh and Poughkeepsie High Schools notwithstanding.

Simon Leads Maroons

Leading Kingston so far, is a young man whose physical appearance is that of anything but a giant. However, when he is on the court his stature grows steadily in the eyes of opponents and fans alike.

Herman Simon, a 5-9 1/2-year-old transfer student from the streets of New York City, is the leading scorer and playmaker for the KHS quintet. Area wage, fans and sports-writers have referred to Herman as being a former star at Boys' High; an ace from DeWitt Clinton; a suspended starter from the legendary ranks of Power Memorial; the half-brother of the great Lew Alcindor.

The truth of the matter is, Simon has never played high school ball. He attended a junior high school in New York City before coming to live in Kingston. He learned his basketball on the macadam courts of Harlem and the City playgrounds. And, while this undisciplined style of play has caused some self appointed critics to poo-poo his ability, Simon is fitting into the KHS system and has averaged 18.3 points-per-game in three appearances.

He is also the team leader in assists and his passing ability is unmatched by anyone in the area at this point in the young season.

The team's second-leading scorer is Junior Vito Platts. Platts is an excellent defender and a fine shooter, averaging 12 points-per-game. When Vito is on, nobody comes close.

Adams Scores

Another transfer student, 6-5 Tony Adams, has also made a big difference in Kingston's basketball picture. Adams, a sophomore from North Carolina, is hitting 11 markers per game and has proven his worth with key rebounds and blocked shots. "The Big Man" is still growing and, like Simon, has had no previous varsity experience.

Six-three sophomore Chuck Jackson is a veteran of last year's squad. Jackson is really coming into his own this season. He is the team's leading rebounder and hits 11.1 markers per tilt for the first four games.

The fifth position is filled by either Pete Boyd or Ron Burris. Both players have the ability to spark the Maroons offensively and defensively. Rienzo has also received good performances from Bruce Gerbarg, Ralph Davis and Vin Rua.

Kingston, as a team, is averaging 69 points-per-game on the offense. They have given up 59 points on the defense. KHS has scored a total of 273 markers in the first four tilts, giving up 233 to the opposition.

Junior Varsity action will start at 6:30 p.m., with the varsity tilt following.

And, if you don't have a ticket yet, forget brother, forget it!

New Face Mask Is Click for Giacomin

By HAL BOCK

Associated Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — Ed Giacomin's brand new face mask is one-for-one—a shutout in its first National Hockey League appearance. You can't ask for a better debut than that.

Giacomin kicked out 20 shots Wednesday night for his fourth shutout of the season—the first one in his ghostly-looking new milky white mask—as the New York Rangers blanked the Buffalo Sabres 4-0.

It was the second straight shutout for New York—Gilles Villeneuve blanked Los Angeles Sunday—and extended the Rangers' home ice unbeaten streak to 15 games. Giacomin and Villeneuve have six shutouts between them and New York's 58 goals against is the best defensive mark of any team in the NHL.

New York remained two points back of Boston in the East Division race as the Bruins downed Los Angeles 6-4. Elsewhere, Toronto whipped Pittsburgh 4-2, Chicago walloped St. Louis 8-3, Montreal tied Minnesota 1-1 and California turned back Detroit 4-2.

Emile Francis, general manager-coach of the Rangers, rewards his goalies with $100 bonuses for shutouts but Giacomin's job Wednesday was even more expensive for the club.

That's because the mask he was wearing is a custom-built $150 job.

The new mask is constructed from a fibreglass cloth material reinforced with resin. Higgins has provided Giacomin with two models, one which covers his ears as well as his face and one which is somewhat more conventional but still affords the goalie more protection than the mask he started using this season.

"It fits more snugly around the eyes," said Giacomin, "and I can see the puck at my feet better with this one. But I'm still working on it, filing it and using sandpaper on it."

Giacomin protected a 1-0 lead through two periods and then the Rangers wrapped it up with third period goals by Pete Sternkowski, Walt Tkaczuk and Jean Ratelle. Ted Irvine had New York's first goal.

Phil Esposito scored two more goals helping Boston whip Los Angeles and maintain its two point lead over the Rangers in the East race. It was the Bruins' sixth straight victory.

Esposito, the NHL's leading scorer, connected twice 49 seconds apart in the second period and ran his total for the season to 28 goals in 30 games. He has had 14 in the last nine games.

Stan Mikita, previously troubled by the new rule reducing the curve of the blade on his stick to a mere half-inch, exploded for four goals to lead the Black Hawks past St. Louis.

Mikita, who had only five goals before Wednesday, scored three times in Chicago's five-goal second period as the Black Hawks wiped out a 3-1 St. Louis lead.

Montreal, frustrated by ex-teammate Gump Worsley until midway through the third period, earned a tie with Minnesota on Claude Larose's late goal.

Larose, an ex-North Star, connected at 10:25, balancing Minnesota's goal by Bill Goldsworthy, who had hit with the game 2 1/2 minutes old.

Toronto ran its winning streak to four games by whipping Pittsburgh with rookie Bill MacMillan scoring twice.

Ron Ellis and Jim Dorey scored Toronto's other goals while Andy Bathgate and Bob Blackburn hit for the Penguins.

State swimmers shattered two individual records en route to a decisive 70-41 victory over Paterson State in the Elting Gym pool Wednesday. The win squared the Hawks' seasonal record at 2 and 2.

Larry Bushey, State's crack freshman, scored a double and lowered his own varsity record in the 200 backstroke in which he was clocked in 2:09.2. His old standard was 2:13.6. He also won the 200 individual medley in 2 minutes, 13.3 seconds.

Harvey Cohen lowered his own 200-yard butterfly record by two-tenths of a second in a 2:22.5 clocking. The old mark was 2:22.7.

Paterson State produced a double winner in Rich Magee, who beat Mike Janoska in both the 100- and 500-yard freestyle.

"Both were good races," said Coach Durkin, "but in all fairness to Mike it should be pointed out that he is coming off the injured list." Magee pulled away from Janoska in the last 20 yards of the 500-yard event.

The Hawks captured three other freestyle events, as John Mason was home first in the 1000-yarder. Steve Schulman in the 50 and Bob Rose in the 100 freestyle.

As usual, New Paltz dominated the diving events with veteran Steve Morgan setting the pace in the required and optional specialties. Westfield did not field an entry in the required event.

Morgan racked up 156.30 points in the required diving and 223.85 in the optional events. Terry Terbush gave the Hawks a second in the required and Keith Robson was runner-up in the optional.

The State swimmers have departed for Florida where they will spend 10 days practicing and compete in several national events. The next home date is January 6th against Oneonta State. Three days later the Ulster County Community College Coach Mike Perry used an old ploy to good advantage last night at Kate Walton Field House as his team easily disposed of Rockland Community, 84-50.

The Senator mentor sent out a starting five minus high scoring captain Glenn Berry, who was being disciplined for missing a practice session. So as Berry watched, Ulster streaked to a nine point lead without him. When Perry finally inserted his top performer with 7:36 left in the half, Berry appeared properly motivated as his game high total of 23 points would indicate. Hitting 16 markers in the final 20 minutes, the 6'3" senior was red-hot, cashing in on 10 of 13 attempts from the floor.

But while Berry was learning his lesson, two of the Senator reserve corps were showing their worth. Rich DeLosa, making his debut as a starter, "did a great job," according to his coach. The freshman poured in 15 points, hitting on 70 per cent of his field goal attempts. And Gary McDonald came on to add 10. Always thought of as the best outside shooter on the team, it was the first time McDonald had shown why.

Coach Perry felt that the win,

Ulster's fourth straight, was earned not only because of the offensive display by McDonald, DeLosa, Berry, and Cliff Weeks (who had 11), but also as a result of "a great defense."

Perry cleared the Senator bench with 5:50 remaining and by the end of the game, only starter Roger Govantes was scoreless.

The win was another good confidence builder for the Senators. Coming off a victory against Suffolk, defending Region XV champs, this one came versus a squad that had been beaten by powerful Westchester Community by only eight points. The Westcos had dumped UCCC handily in the opener.

Ulster's overall record now stands at 5-2 and 2-1 in the Mid-Hudson Conference. Next on the schedule is a road excursion to Delhi Tech Friday night. The Senators then meet St. John's freshmen on Tuesday before returning to the Field House for a Dec. 23 get together with New York City Community College.

The box score:

ULSTER (84)	ROCKLAND (50)
FG FT	FG FT
DeLosa 7 15	Haubner 3 9
Harder 2 1	Jones 2 2
Weeks 4 3	Guadagnino 0 1

Floyd-Ringo Bout Appears in Making

NEW YORK (AP) — A 1-round heavyweight fight is set for Jan. 22 in Madison Square Garden between Oscar Bonavena and Floyd Patterson but Bonavena says he can't make it—doctor's orders.

Harry Markson, director of boxing for the Garden, announced the fight Wednesday. But Wednesday night Bonavena said in Buenos Aires:

"I want to have this fight since I gave my word to Mr. Teddy Brenner (Garden matchmaker), but my personal doctor has advised me to rest and forget boxing for awhile, and I have no other choice but to do just that."

Told of Bonavena's statement, Markson said, "I don't know what this is all about. We were talking to Bonavena on the phone only yesterday (Tuesday), and he told us he was ready to fight on Jan. 22 and would be here on Jan. 10.

Bonavena's physician, Dr. Robert Palandine, said last week after Bonavena returned home after being stopped in the 15th round by Muhammad Ali that the fighter was in excellent physical condition but "he is exhausted after his extraordinary fight."

Bonavena said he thought he would be ready to fight again by the middle of February.

Markson said Patterson, the former world heavyweight champion, and Bonavena each would be guaranteed $60,000 against 25 per cent of the gate.

Cavalier Half Not Equal to Knick Whole

NO CONTEST — Walt Frazier, who led Knicks scoring with 22 points, drives past Cavs Dave Sorenson. Knicks defeated Cleveland, 108-84, in NBA basketball.

Stars Stun Memphis Pros

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS San Diego 128-117 and San Francisco 108-91. The Utah Stars made the Memphis Pros look like the rank amateurs Wednesday night. With nine players scoring in double figures, the Stars blasted the Pros 145-101 in American Basketball Association. The three stars against Indiana, only other game saw Kentucky defeat Indiana 125-110. In the NBA, the New York Knicks whipped Cleveland 108-84. Los Angeles downed Cincinnati 118-102. Atlanta turned back

By United Press International It was a beautiful 24 minutes for the Cleveland Cavaliers. But unfortunately, pro basketball is a 48-minute game. The Cavaliers, who may set all sorts of utility marks before their maiden National Basketball Association season is over, surged in front of the Knicks in the first quarter Wednesday night and held on for a 50-50 halftime tie. But then, quickly and almost inevitably, the roof fell in. With Walt Frazier and Phil Jackson leading the way, the Knicks outscored Cleveland 14-5 in the first seven minutes of the second half, rolled up a 58-34 second half margin and coasted to a 108-84 victory. In the only other NBA action Wednesday night, Los Angeles whipped Cincinnati 118-102. Atlanta beat San Diego 128-117 and San Francisco downed Seattle 108-91. Frazier hit 16 of his 22 points in the second half and Jackson, subbing for Willis Reed, who suffered a cut above his eye in the first half, hit six of 11 shots to perk up the sluggish New York offense. Rookie John Johnson scored 21 points to lead the Cavaliers, who suffered their 33rd loss in 35 games. Wilt Chamberlain and Jerry West teamed for 60 points as the Lakers beat San Diego. Chamberlain hit for 35 and West contributed 25 to help Los Angeles snap the Royals' three-game winning streak. West's 25 points left him only 17 shy of the 20,000-point career mark. Walt Hazzard scored 10 consecutive points early in the fourth quarter to rally the Hawks over San Diego. Atlanta led 90-87 when Hazzard went on his spree to lift the Hawks to a 100-87 lead. Hazzard had 31 points and Pete Maravich 27 to lead the Hawks while Stu Lantz was high man for the Rockets with 31. Nate Thurmond scored 17 of his 19 points in the second half as the Warriors downed Seattle. Thurmond hit two free throws and a layup to give the Warriors a 71-67 lead in the third period and they never relinquished it. It was San Francisco's third straight triumph and left the Lakers in the Pacific Division. Jerry Lucas' 29 points were tops for the Warriors while Len Wilkens led the SuperSonics with 28.

Driesell Socked — Team Is Too

By TED MEIER Associated Press Sports Writer The Maryland Terrapins not only got walloped by the South Carolina Gamecocks, their coach got socked, too. Lefty Driesell, the Terps' coach, was punched by John Ribick, a South Carolina player, as he tried to break up a fight among players of both teams that erupted near the Maryland bench Wednesday night.

The melee caused referee Gene Conley to call off the college basketball game at Columbia, S.C. with 4:52 left to play. At the time the nationally second-ranked Gamecocks were far ahead at 96-70 and that went into the books as the final score. "John Ribick hit me," said Driesell who suffered a bruised cheek and lip. "All I was trying to do was to get him off people."

Ribick was not available for comment. Rick Aydtlett of South Carolina and Jay Flowers of Maryland first came to blows under the Gamecock basket. The officials broke that up, but the fighting erupted again near

Hunter Real Mecca For Senior Skiers

We all know that most skiers are young—but what about the skier who is older? "It's never too late," says Mrs. Peg Sherlock of Woodstock, who with her husband, Ed, form a steady two-some over the Hunter Mountain ski trails.

A recent survey by Mrs. Sherlock reveals that perhaps the astonishing number of older persons who ski has been overlooked. "Many have skied for years, some have taken it up recently and still others are in the starting stage and will be on the slopes soon," she points out.

Karl Plattner, the ski school director and instructor for Hunter Mt. Ski Bowl, told Mrs. Sherlock that "skiing is an excellent outlet for retired people as it gives them something to do and keeps their minds occupied."

Plattner said he knew a man in Europe 86 years old who is on the slopes every day. "Karl does not believe that skiing is a dangerous sport—it's a lot more dangerous riding in a car," she said. "For safe skiing, he recommends a short ski with a step-in binding. They go slower and are easier to maneuver in the turns."

Here are a few thumbnail sketches on several outstanding regulars on the Hunter slopes: Rudy Leitner, 57, is a skiing instructor from Austria who is visiting Karl Plattner at Hunter before going to Houston, Texas, where he will meet an old friend who is a heart specialist. From there they go to Aspen, Colorado and Sun Valley, Idaho, where Leitner will privately instruct the doctor. Leitner has been skiing 27 years.

Irving Cohen, retired, from Hartsdale, N. Y., was in the publishing business and mail order business and has published books on contract bridge. He skied in his earlier years but because of illness had to give it up temporarily. Just recently (1969-70 season) he has resumed skiing and skis "for the good time and enjoyment of it." He comes to Hunter by bus for "ski weeks" including lessons. He estimates he skied about 36 times last year at Hunter.

Archer Winsten of New York has reviewed movies for 34 years and has been Ski Editor for the New York Post for 28 years. He has skied for 30 years. He is rated an expert, has competed in races and negotiated Hunter's demanding K-27 many times.

Winsten was on the trails between 50 and 60 times last season and affirms that Hunter Mt. Ski Bowl has the best snow-making facilities in the east. He has nothing but praise for the way the mountain has developed and maintained. Winsten admits to being a bit of a ski fanatic. His whole family are skiers and are just as enthusiastic about the sport as he is.

A Poughkeepsie couple—Mr. and Mrs. Robert Hill—are both avid skiers with 17 years experience. Hill is a general broker for property insurance in Poughkeepsie and is semi-retired. The Hills are excellent skiers and ski for the sheer pleasure of skiing. Both rate skiing conditions at Hunter to be the best in the east and say that "ski reports" from there are the most dependable.

Mrs. Sherlock did not overlook her husband, Ed-Sherlock who divides his seasons between skiing at Hunter and golf at Woodstock Country Club. He is also an amateur artist.

A retired executive from the automobile industry, Sherlock took up skiing five years ago and has turned out to be a good intermediate skier. "He skied about 60 times last year at Hunter and expects to beat that number this season—at Hunter Mt., of course!" she says.

Why senior skiers do it? "They do not care about speed or impressing others," Mrs. Sherlock concluded. "They ski for the mere joy and pleasure of skiing—they just love to ski." Could there be a better reason?

Today's Sport Parade
(Reg. U.S. Pat. Off.)
By MILTON RICHMAN
UPI Sports Writer

NEW YORK (UPI)—Joe Frazier says sure, why not, he'll be glad to tell you what he really thinks of Cassius Clay.

That's what Joe Frazier calls him.

Actually he seldom uses the name of the man he's going to meet for the world heavyweight championship most likely in March, generally identifying his future opponent as "he" or "him," but in those cases where he does refer by name it's Cassius Clay.

Frazier figures Clay had a motive for fighting Oscar Bonavena the way he did. "He loafed and fooled around," says Frazier, who saw the fight on closed circuit TV. "He probably did it for a reason. I think he wanted to go the distance."

Clay Is Different
Frazier believes he detects a difference in Clay since his long layoff and he means outside the ring as well as inside it.

"He's a little more quiet. I think he's worried," Frazier says supporting one of Clay's statements after the Bonavena fight. Clay said he "wasn't right mentally" for the fight and had something on his mind—something which had nothing at all to do with boxing.

"Maybe he's scared," Frazier says. "Look, everybody gets nervous sometimes. I guess I'll be nervous myself before the fight."

Like most others, Joe Frazier noticed where Clay and Bonavena both disclaimed any personal hard feelings after their fight and said all the pre-fight name-calling had been strictly for publicity. Frazier doesn't go for that kind of noise.

"I will get in no such conversation with him," he says. "Anything I say I mean. If I tell him it'll be a rough fight I'll mean it. I'd never say anything in a racial way or in a way having to do with bad language. That ain't me."

Frazier will not be going in against Clay cold.

"I've had him mapped out for the last three years," he says. "I think I'll be able to hit him with either one of my hands. I'm gonna let you in on something. Clay is not as fast as most people think he is. The thing that makes him seem so fast is his clowning. He calls it the 'Ali shuffle' and what-not. But if someone puts him down to business making him stick to work and no clowning you find out he's not so fast. That way he has to fight or get out of the ring."

Frazier Stays in Trim
While negotiations for the title fight go on, Joe Frazier keeps working out in the gym staying in trim and getting as sharp as possible. He says he doesn't know how close the fight is actually to being made right now.

"That's outta my reach," he says. "I'm just working on preparing myself the right way. That's what I believe in. Life. Whatever I do I try to make it good and do it right, you know, without hurting anybody else while I'm doing it."

Frazier has been quoted as saying he'll retire after his fight with Clay. Will he?

"I probably will," he says. "Then again I probably won't. Loosely translated that means he'll keep 'ghu g. I never had a chance to really enjoy my championship by going around meeting people, talking to them—I doing things like that," he says. "After this with Clay I think I'll have a chance to get out and be with people more."

Win or lose, right?

"It'll be a win," Joe Frazier promises.

Nordics Hold Panel

ROSENDALE Junior Nordic Night sponsored by the Rosendale Nordic Ski Club attracted more than 100 youngsters to the Marletown School where they participated in a Nordic Ski Panel and watched an IBM produced film on the complete 1968 Winter Olympics held at Grenoble.

Mrs. Lawrence Ricci of High Falls, president of the Nordics, moderated the panel. She was assisted by Kenneth Tokle of High Falls, the club's ski jumping coach; and Walter Williams, chairman of the Senior Cross Country Committee.

"The panel was designed to teach youngsters the fine points of Nordic discipline," said Mrs. Ricci.

The club has launched its annual search for Winter Queen candidates and several organizations in town already have entered candidates. The contest is open to any single girl between 16 and 21, who is a resident of the Rosendale-Rondout Valley area.

Candidates are requested to send a black and white photo and resume to Nina Tokle of High Falls. A panel of judges will interview the candidates early in January and make their selection at that time.

Tokle, the jumping coach, conducted the first workout on the club's two junior hills in Binnewater. Tokle pointed out that the club has developed two youngsters capable of jumping off the Olympic size hill on Rosendale's Mt. Joppenbergh Mountain—Ed Humlock of High Falls and Bob Swenka of Tillson.

Both spent the winter of 1968-69 competing on smaller hills such as Bear Mountain and last winter both successfully negotiated the big Rosendale jump.

Derby Case Going Up

LEXINGTON, Ky. (AP) — A decision on what thoroughbred won the 1968 Kentucky Derby purse appears headed to Kentucky's highest court today, following a decision by the State Racing Commission to appeal a lower court's ruling to award the money to Dancer's Image.

In a unanimous vote Wednesday, the five commissioners agreed to take the case to the Court of Appeals as soon as the Franklin Circuit Court decision is made final.

Circuit Judge Henry Meigs, in a ruling last Friday, said there was insufficient evidence to disqualify Peter Fuller's colt from participation in the purse of the 1968 Derby.

Meigs' ruling overruled the commission's decision last year which held that Calumet Farm's Bard Pass should receive the commission's decision.

Fuller, a wealthy Boston auto car dealer, began his legal battle after that decision.

Meigs said in his ruling that tests run on Dancer's Image by the commission chemist, Kenneth Smith, were "inadequate and contradictory."

Smith had tested the colt after the race and reported later that Dancer's Image showed traces of phenylbutazone, a forbidden medication, in his urinalysis.

If the appellate court upholds the lower court decision, state Racing Commissioner George Egger indicated the matter would not be appealed further.

"I think it is a state matter," Egger said, after announcing the commission's decision.

UCCC Program Set by the Readers Theater

STONE RIDGE
The Oral-Interpretation class of Ulster County Community College will present a program of Readers Theater entitled, "The Sound of Gray," Tuesday, Dec. 22.

According to Mrs. Rhoda R. Mones, chairman of the Speech Department, the public is welcome to attend the performance at 1:45 p.m. in Room 420 of the John Burroughs Building.

Featured in this program, which centers on the theme of alienation, will be Raymond Davis, Susan DeStefano, James Di Giovanni, Lella Ford, Edward Miller, Michelle Scherer and Marcia Zwilling.

Readers Theater can be defined as a group activity involving the re-creation of literature. Because it makes use not only of plays but also of poetry, essay, song and other forms of narrative communication, and because it requires no formal staging, it has become a popular and flexible method of oral interpretation.

NOTICE OF SALE
INDEX NO. 1237

In pursuance of a judgment of foreclosure and sale duly made and entered in the above entitled action, bearing date the 2nd day of December, 1970, I, the undersigned, the referee in said judgment named, will sell at public auction at the Courthouse in the City of Kingston and County of Ulster, New York, on the 6th day of January, 1971, at 11:00 in the forenoon of that day the premises described by said judgment to be sold and there-in described being as follows:

All that certain lot, piece, or parcel of land with the buildings and improvements thereon erected, situate, lying, and being in the City of Kingston, County of Ulster and State of New York, on the western side of Third Avenue, being Lot No. 489 on map of lands of E. B. Newkirk in Rondout and is bounded as follows: Northernly by lot No. 489 conveyed to the Rondout and Oswego Railroad (now Ulster & Delaware R. R. Co.), easterly by said Third Avenue, southerly by land of said Newkirk (formerly) and westerly by the same. Said lot being forty (40) feet front and rear and one hundred (100) feet deep.

ALSO ALL THAT CERTAIN PIECE OR PARCEL OF LAND situate in the City of Kingston (formerly Rondout) County of Ulster and State of New York, bounded and described as follows: BEGINNING at a point in the northwesterly line of Third Avenue where the same is intersected by the southwesterly line of the premises conveyed by Edgar B. Newkirk and Emma Newkirk, his wife, to the Rondout and Oswego Railroad Company by deed dated July 16, 1868 recorded in the office of the Clerk of said County of Ulster in Book 188 of Deeds at page 44; and running thence northwesterly along the southwesterly line of said premises conveyed by deed as aforesaid one hundred (100) feet more or less to the rear line of lots fronting on the northwesterly side of Third Avenue; thence northwesterly along the rear line of said lots fronting on the northwesterly side of Third Avenue forty (40) feet more or less to a point distant southwesterly twenty (20) feet measured radially from the center line of original location of the Rondout and Oswego Railroad said center line being the center line of the present main track of the Catskill Mountain Branch of the New York Central Railroad; thence southeasterly by a curve convex to the north, drawn by compass with distant southwesterly twenty (20) feet measured radially from said center line and one hundred (100) feet more or less to said northwesterly line of Third Avenue; thence westerly along said Third Avenue thirty seven (37) feet more or less to the point and place of beginning.

Containing three thousand eight hundred and eighty seven (3,887) square feet of land more or less. The above described premises are situated in the City of Kingston, County of Ulster, State of New York, and are bounded as follows: Northernly by lot No. 489 and 480 on Map of North Rondout, lands of E. B. Newkirk which said map was filed in the Office of the Clerk of said County of Ulster in Book 188 of Deeds at page 44; and as Map #229 and is as above described; and subject to such state of facts as a current accurate survey might show.

Being the same premises conveyed by George A. Taylor and Thomas H. Fisher and Paulette E. Fisher, his wife, by deed dated June 15, 1968 recorded in the Office of the Clerk of said County of Ulster in Book 188 of Deeds at page 44; and as Map #229 and is as above described; and subject to such state of facts as a current accurate survey might show.

To the defendants: NATHAN L. FINKELSTEIN and JILL DIAMOND FINKELSTEIN:

The foregoing summons is served upon you by publication, pursuant to an order of Hon. Louis G. Bruhn, a Justice of the Supreme Court of the State of New York, signed on the 30th day of November, 1970 and filed in the office of the Clerk of Ulster County on the 1st day of December, 1970; the complaint having been filed in the Office of the Clerk of Ulster County on the 19th day of November, 1970.

The object of this action is to foreclose a mortgage upon the premises described below, executed to Alfred G. Parke and Jerrie T. Parke on June 17, 1968, recorded in the office of the Clerk of Ulster County on June 19, 1968 in Liber 988 of Mortgages at page 886.

The property in question is described as follows:

ALL THAT TRACT OR PARCEL OF LAND, situate in the Town of Woodstock, County of Ulster and State of New York, and bounded and described as follows:

BEGINNING at a point in the center of the Old Glisco Turnpike, and running thence north 20 degrees 45 minutes west six hundred and eighty two and one half (682½) feet to a stone; thence North 73 degrees 45 minutes west two hundred and forty five (245) feet more or less to the land now occupied by Mrs. W. H. Thence south 30 degrees 45 minutes west five hundred and seventy five and one half (575½) feet to a stone; thence south 30 degrees 45 minutes west four hundred and eighty eight (488) feet to a stone; thence south 21 degrees 30 minutes west one hundred and eighteen (118) feet to the center of the aforesaid road; thence along the same south 21 degrees 30 minutes east one hundred and sixteen and one half (116½) feet, thence still along its lands south 44 degrees 56 minutes east eighty eight (88) feet to the place of beginning. Containing four and sixty one hundredths (4.61/100) acres.

LEGAL NOTICE

Subject to the right of Ella Rieley to repair a certain water pipe crossing the land conveyed where the pipe now lies.

The above described property and said right given to Ella Rieley, a deed executed by Althea Platt to Clara Chickadee dated July 14, 1921 and recorded in the Ulster County Clerk's Office on March 28, 1921, in Book 481 at page 46.

Excepting out of the above described property a parcel of two (2) acres which was conveyed by Clara Chickadee to Annie A. Tyson by deed dated August 24, 1942 and recorded in the Ulster County Clerk's Office on August 28, 1942 in Book 628 of Deeds at page 481.

The property hereby conveyed is also subject to a right of way twelve (12) feet in width leading from the Glisco Turnpike to said two (2) acre parcel as conveyed in said deed to Tyson.

The above described property is also conveyed subject to the terms and conditions of a certain grant made by Clara Chickadee to the Central Hudson Gas & Electric Corporation and to the New York Telephone Company dated July 14, 1947 and recorded October 8, 1947 in Book 688 of Deeds at page 389.

Being the same premises conveyed by Alfred G. Parke and Jerrie T. Parke, his wife, to Nathan Finkelstein, his wife, which deed is intended to be recorded simultaneously with this mortgage.

This mortgage shall remain subordinate to a prior first mortgage given by the mortgagors herein to the National Bank of Commerce & Ulster Counties, Woodstock Office, dated June 17th, 1968 in the principal amount of $9,000.

Dear Abby

How'd He Solve It?

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN
(© 1970 by Chicago Tribune-N.Y. News Syndicate, Inc.)

DEAR ABBY: My husband owned a store in New York and we used to spend about five months of the year in Florida. He died in Florida last month, and it was his wish that he be buried in Florida. I notified his employees in New York, and his bookkeeper who had been with him for 13 years, and his manager, who had been with him for 28 years, flew to Florida for his funeral.

Later, when I checked over the books, I found that the manager and bookkeeper had charged their airline tickets to my husband's business! I am terribly angry over this and wonder if I should insist that they reimburse the business.

WIDOW

DEAR WIDOW: Ask yourself, "How would my husband have handled it?" Then, handle it that way.

DEAR ABBY: I have been unable to find the correct type of card to send to friends and relatives to announce the arrival of an adopted baby. Printing services in our city have not been able to help us. My husband feels that we should make it perfectly clear that we have adopted a baby. I don't think that is necessary. I think if we send out announcements with the baby's name and date of birth on it, those who are close to us will know he's adopted, and the others need know nothing more than the arrival of our child.

Please advise.

IN DOUBT IN CONN.

DEAR IN: Your "printing service" needs to update their service. I have seen announcements for the adopted child. ("We have an addition to our family. Mary Ann was born Aug. 25, and came to us on Sept. 2d.")

To send an ordinary birth announcement would imply that you had actually given birth to the child, which is perfectly all right, if that is the impression you want to create.

DEAR ABBY: I know lying is wrong. But how about a "little white lie?" There are so many situations where the bald truth is cruel, and a little white lie wouldn't hurt. Example: "How do you like my new hat?"

NELLIE

DEAR NELLIE: That type of white lie is, of course, not only harmless—it's kind, and I doubt if the gates of heaven would be closed to you for having told it. However, most white lies often end up as a double feature in technicolor.

DEAR ABBY: A writer asked, "Where did the custom of kissing a lady's hand originate? And why?"

You said it originated in France, and probably because a person had to start somewhere.

You were half right. Hand-kissing did originate in France, but there is more to it than that. A gentleman properly kisses the hands of only married women—and on the left hand, because that is where the wedding ring is worn. The significance? To show "respect" for her marriage.

Jean Adams' TEEN FORUM

JEALOUS: (Q.) I have found out my boyfriend reads Playboy. I am very upset because I am very jealous. I think his looking at Playboy means I am no longer good enough for him.

Please tell me why guys have got to look at Playboy. I don't want him to look at nude pictures of girls. I feel hurt. Please tell me what to say to him to quit.—Seething in San Antonio, Texas.

(A.) Don't say anything. Anything you say will hurt you more than it will help you. I do not believe the fact that your friend looks at a magazine means that he no longer cares for you. Teen-age boys by the millions look at all kinds of periodicals.

But they prefer real girls to pictures. You are a real girl. No picture can replace you.

ULCER: (Q.) I have an ulcer. I'm home from school a lot because of it. My parents are starting to think I'm faking it. I'm really not. I get very sick. They yell at me about it, and the yelling makes it hurt more. What can I do?—Really Sick in Baltimore.

(A.) A doctor can tell your parents how serious your ulcer is. If you've been seeing one, ask him to talk to your mother or father about yours.

If you haven't been to a doctor, go to one now—today, if possible, whether you hurt today or not. Ulcers can be cured if they are treated early enough.

CARROLL RICHTER'S HOROSCOPE

GENERAL TENDENCIES:

You want to assert yourself more now, but you must be sure to use good judgment and in so doing do not run from an obligation to which you are committed. Because you want special things for yourself is no reason to let others down. Complete promises made and then be off and away.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) If you want to carry through with promises made in both business and personal ties, it is important to schedule your time well. Show affection for the one who is so devoted. Think and act wisely.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) A bigwig and kin do not agree on some project, so forget all about it for now and start on your own personal duties. Get as much done as you possibly can. Avoid persons who are unreasonable.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) A MUST day for shopping and keeping the appointments that are important. Stop worrying about routine matters. Discussions can prove to be most profitable with associates now. Show that you are a person who has good sense.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) Avoid going out for expensive pleasure today. Think how to meet all those Christmas expenses properly. Invite a friend or neighbor in and have a delightful time talking. Show you are a good citizen.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) Being more willing to let kin carry through with their ideas and ambitions while you follow your own inclinations is wise at this time. Improve your health and appearance in spare time. Stop being so opinionated.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) Stop daydreaming so much and use particular care in travel. Give attention to confidential matters that are important. Evening is a good time for happiness with mate.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) Friends understand your views now and give you assistance in gaining your aims. Don't be so completely practical. Know which group you want to join in the evening for greater pleasure.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) Doing things that stamp you as a very fine citizen is good now, even though you may think anything goes these days. Improve your credit rating. Do not neglect to pay vital bills.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) If you keep fretting about a situation that has you bugged, you fail to make use of inspirational ideas you have. Listen to what a bigwig has to suggest. Get work done on it without a lot of unnecessary talk.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) You have many obligations to discharge so get busy on them early, then discuss with influential persons you know about ideas you need. Your hunches are okay but not a good time to put them in motion. Be wise.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) Look for a generous associate for the cooperation you need now for project you have in mind. See why he disagrees with highly-placed person. Come to an agreement on person matters, too.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20)

Use that energy to get your work done most efficiently, but this is not a good day for expansion you have in mind. State your aims to co-workers. They will then cooperate with you willingly.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY... he or she will be one of those fascinating young people who is a natural positive thinker. This is a good reason why your progeny will accomplish more than others around. Give praise when deserved. The field of acting, teaching, or selling will be particularly fine here. Give as much education as is needed for good results. Don't neglect music and other cultural teachings. Some sports are good also.

"The Stars impel, they do not compel." What you make of your life is largely up to YOU! Carroll Richter's Individual Forecast for your sign for January is now ready. Quick Quiz

Q—Which of the 12 judges mentioned in the Book of Judges was a woman?

A—The prophetess Deborah. One of the most notable victory odes of the Bible is the "Song of Deborah" in the 5th chapter of the Book of Judges.

Q—How far may bees have to travel to make a pound of honey?

A—They may have to travel 13,000 miles, or about four times the distance across the United States.

Q—What tree types are not found in the Hawaiian Islands?

A—Mysteriously, the Hawaiian Islands have no conifers, no oaks, no maples, and only one distant and rare relative of the elm. (Newspaper Enterprise Assn.)

I think his rhetoric is the best thing about him — it's his ideas that disturb me. —Senator Eugene McCarthy, commenting on Vice President Spiro Agnew.

WHY WE SAY

LOVE

TENNIS TERM: We use the word love to mean zero in a tennis match. The term comes from the French word "l'œuf," meaning egg or zero. When tennis came from France to England, the term was introduced but spelled "love."

Serling Returns to 'Twilight'

NEW YORK (AP) — Writer-couraged by the hypnotist be- Rod Serling has gone back to keep the young man around. When the patient failed to re- spond to his "wake up" signal, the wife became distraught.

His new "Night Gallery," a six-part section of NBC's "Four Most of the remaining action took place in a picturesque Wednesday night and the opening program indicated it will be as popular with people who like horror films.

Each program in "Night Gallery" consists of two half-hour stories.

The first, "The Dead Man," was a tale of a doctor who was deeply involved in an experiment with a young attractive woman. He had a cold, beautiful man especially susceptible to hypnosis. The doctor, played by Carl Betz, placed the patient completely under his control. To obtain both, he hired an even to a point where, on signal, the doctor's beautiful wife the was involved in a love affair with the patient, an affair en- effected the transplant.

Old Man Z plays Familiar Hand

By Oswald and James Jacoby

Y and Z have taken up JACOBY MODERN, although their bidding does not meet with our complete approval. Z's opening bid of two clubs was the artificial two-club opening and the only forcing opening at his disposal. Y's two-spade response was also artificial and showed seven-nine high-card points.

Z might well have explored to see where those points might be but the old auction player was not going to be bound by too much modern science. He placed the contract at six diamonds.

West opened the six of trumps. Z looked at the dummy for an instant and smiled, as if recognizing an old friend. Then he cashed three high trumps. This gave East time to signal strongly in hearts. Z's next play was the five of spades. West ducked and the old man was able to come back to his hand, run off the rest of the trumps and make the proper end-play against poor West.

"Had you seen this hand before?" asked a kibitzer. "Yes, I played it in one of Milton's Work's columns back in 1926 and 1927. Since the game was auction, I opened with three diamonds and played the hand there. I would get my slam bonus as long as I made six. A, who always sat West, opened a heart. Naturally, this made the hand a sure thing when I found that A held three trumps."

Before you disagree with the old man, let's look at the sure-thing play. He ruffed the heart high, cashed two high trumps and threw West in with his last trump. West was caught in a three-suit end-play and had to give declarer the rest of the tricks.

One hardly needs to be a Ser- the family. Bing, was in the middle of things to sing a lot of songs from religious to "White Christmas." Play Kathryn sang a little and acted a little. And each of the three Crosby children had their turn with both straight lines and some singing. One of the most effective numbers was a charming little costume play in which Mary Frances Crosby played a princess wooed by a lowly peasant — Jack Wild.

There was just one theme— Christmas—and the producers and the performers somehow caught and projected its spirit.

Hanoi on Raids: Challenge to Bloc

PARIS (UPI)—North Vietnamese said today that President Nixon had directly challenged the might of the world Communist bloc by threatening to resume bombing of North Vietnam.

The statement by Hanoi negotiator Xuan Thuy coincided with a rare personal attack on months of U.S. policy in President Nixon by an official Soviet statement which said Nixon would "draw appropriate conclusions" if U.S. air raids on the North continued.

Thuy made his remarks as he entered the 95th session of the Paris talks. He said Nixon's Dec. 10 news conference buildup likely to endanger the withdrawal of U.S. troops.

Moscow denounced the Nixon statements Tuesday, 24 hours after Premier Alexei N. Kosygin received Hanoi envoy Nguyen Tho Tian in the Kremlin. Tian formally informed Kosygin of Hanoi's partial mobilization to meet the bombing threat.

The Moscow declaration followed a similar one from Peking, issued three days earlier, warning Nixon "not to miscalculate."

In his prepared speech to the conference, Thuy did not repeat his remarks about the challenge to the Communist bloc. But he denounced the President's remarks as "most brazen and warlike statements."

The chief Viet Cong negotiator, Madame Nguyen Thi Binh, urged the United States to respond to her offer last week of an immediate cease-fire and talks on prisoner release if the U.S. declares it will pull out of South Vietnam by next June 30.

Madame Binh in her prepared statement to the session ignored the allied counterproposal to meet every day to try to negotiate the release of U.S. prisoners by Christmas.

She said her proposal "will insure, in the immediate future, the safety of the U.S. troops' withdrawal" as well as quickly ending the war.

Going into the conference, chief Hanoi negotiator Xuan Thuy denounced President Nixon's news conference statements last week as "warlike."

Nixon told the nation the United States would not hesitate to resume bombing of North Vietnam if the latter continued firing on U.S. reconnaissance planes, or if there was Hanoi military buildup that would threaten the withdrawal of U.S. forces from South Vietnam.

Nixon, he said, "defies not only the Vietnamese peoples, but also the socialist countries and peace-loving people of the world. We categorically reject his assertions."

ASSIST THE PRESIDENT — President Nixon left the covered speakers platform and went into the rain to select 5-year-old Andre Proctor (wearing stocking hat) of Washington, D. C., to help him light the National Christmas Tree during a ceremony on the Ellipse behind the White House on Wednesday. (UPI TELEPHOTO).

New Anti-American Terror

By BERT W. OKULEY
SAIGON (UPI)—The U.S. command said today terrorists killed a Vietnamese schoolboy in the city of Qui Nhon last week and hurled a grenade into a nearby sidewalk cafe in another outbreak of anti-American attacks.

The U.S. command said today that 29 Americans were killed in the war last week and 377 others were wounded. It brought to 44,144 the number of Americans killed since Jan. 1, 1961.

The explosions killed two and wounded seven. The other dead and wounded were Vietnamese. It was the second straight night of terrorist activity, which has increased since an American soldier accidentally shot and killed a Vietnamese schoolboy in the city of Qui Nhon last week.

The U.S. command said today that 29 Americans were killed in the war last week and 377 others were wounded. It brought to 44,144 the number of Americans killed since Jan. 1, 1961.

The explosions killed two and wounded seven. The other dead and wounded were Vietnamese. It was the second straight night of terrorist activity, which has thrown from a speeding automobile into a cafe not far from the base, killing one American GI and wounding seven. One Vietnamese civilian also died and 17 others were wounded.

Military spokesmen said a 30-pound plastic explosive device was set off in the lobby of Horne Hall bachelor officers' quarters. The blast killed the officer on duty and wounded a civilian employee.

The four-story officers' dormitory was heavily damaged and many occupants had to move to other quarters.

OK Cambodian Aid

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The Senate has approved a $225 million aid plan for Cambodia, stamping its approval on a vast program of unknown duration to save the embattled Indochina state with American dollars instead of American men.

The measure passed Wednesday on a 72 to 22 vote despite the claims of opponents who said it would create a downward slide leading to another Vietnam.

The action represented a major foreign policy victory for President Nixon. Ironically, it came from the same Senate that challenged Nixon's policies in Indochina and finally drove out all year: a legislative prohibition on the use of ground combat troops in Cambodia, which the President feels would tie his hands.

The aid measure approved Wednesday contained the ban not only on troops, but also advisers.

Sen. J. William Fulbright, D-Ark., who opposes the aid measure, will head the Senate conferees and some congressional sources expect him to try to bottle up the bill.

But a much more serious obstacle to final passage came from the same Senate House and Senate have fought on Indochina and finally drove out all year: a legislative

My Lai Witness: The Party's Over

FT. BENNING, Ga. (UPI)—"The party's over — that's enough shootin' for today."

These words, according to a witness, ended the alleged My Lai massacre.

But 33 months to the day later, the grim melody of murder lingered on for Capt. Ernest L. Medina, the man said to have spoken them.

The defense in the Calley murder court-martial kept daubing Medina, the former commander of Charlie Company, as the one who ordered up a slaughter on the innocents.

Holiday Recess Due
Lt. William L. Calley, 27, former platoon commander under Medina, stands charged with 12 civilian murders in the Vietnam hamlet on March 16, 1968. The defense contends he was carrying out a legal act of war and that the entire company had been fired up by Medina's urging them to go in and kill the inhabitants.

On Wednesday the defense produced its 14th straight witness who said Medina, in a passionate speech the night before, gave the impression he wanted women and children killed.

The defense said it had only one more witness, and after his testimony today the trial was to recess for three weeks for the holidays. Tightness of available transportation prevented the defense getting enough wit-
